HOPE IS CONFIDENT ATLANTA WILL VOTE FOR SCHOOL BONDS

Members of Board of Education Greatly Encouraged Over Widespread Interest Shown by Citizens.

MOVEMENT IS INDORSED BY SUFFRAGE LEADERS

Subcommittee Will Hold Meeting This Afternoon to Formulate Report for Whole Committee.

President George M. Hope, head of Atlanta's board of education, is certain that the proposed issue of $1,500,000 of school bonds will be approved by the people at the polls, provided the appeal on behalf of the school system is made direct and without incumbrances.

President Hope said Thursday that he has made a close inquiry among business men, and that from the information he has gathered he is of the opinion that every voter in the city will vote for the school bonds because they realize that every section and class is directly affected. Other members of the board and members of the general council who have kept their fingers close to the pulse of the people have similar opinions, and are encouraged over the widespread interest being taken.

Suffrage Leaders Help.

Considerable impetus was given the bond issue campaign Thursday when it was announced that the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association, of which Mrs. Amelia R. Woodall is president, had gone on record as indorsing the proposed issue, and as an evidence of the sincerity of the association it was voted to approve even an issue of $4,100,000 if the city decides to make the issue that large.

In a strong address to the association Mrs. Woodall said, in part:

"If the women of Atlanta could vote, the passage of this bond issue would be assured, for the mother of Atlanta would not hesitate when it came to the question of providing better health conditions, better school facilities, bigger hospitals, more parks, etc., for our city.

"My only objection to the bond issue," said Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, "is that the proposed apportionment of $1,500,000 to the schools seems, to me, inadequate. According to the estimate of expenditures needed at once $2,000,000 is the least that should be apportioned to the schools, even if we should have to increase the amount of the bond issue. We cannot afford to skimp and be niggardly when it comes to providing for the training and education of our boys and girls.

"Let Atlanta take this opportunity to provide for and establish a public school system second to none in the country and thus take the lead in removing the stigma of illiteracy that rests upon our state."

Will Cut Down Issue.

Although there was no meeting of the general bond issue committee of council Thursday morning as was scheduled, it is generally regarded as certain that the committee will bring the entire bond issue to within $3,750,000 when it meets Friday afternoon.

The only difference of opinion among members of the sub-committee relates to the amount needed for school purposes. Alderman Jesse W. Armistead, chairman of the school committee, says that the school system needs not less than $1,500,000. Alderman James R. Nutting, chairman of the sub-committee, takes the position taht $1,000,000 will be sufficient to supply the needs of the schools. However, Alderman Nutting is willing to vote for an issue $1,500,000 for school purposes.

Alderman Nutting's idea is to keep the entire issue as close to $3,500,000 as possible, for the reason that he believes that the people can be more readily induced to vote for that amount than a sum like $4,100,000. He is going to urge the general committee to keep the issue to within $3,500,000, but he says that he won't do anything which will have a tendency to create friction.

Will Act in Harmony.

"We have worked this matter out in a business-like and harmonious manner," he says, "and when council is finally called on to act we still want to be in harmony. We want this issue to go to the people with the unanimous indorsement of every member of council, and we want the people and the general council to be a unit."

There is not the slightest chance for anything to prevent the report going to council at its meeting Monday afternoon, and immediately members of council and the school board will prepare to get everything in shape for the election, which will be held next year.

SHOT BY WIFE IN FIGHT.

Lindsay Wright, of Waycross, Probably Fatally Wounded.

Waycross, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Lindsay Wright was probably fatally shot this afternoon by his wife.

They were quarrelling over possession of a pistol, according to the woman's story, when it was accidentally discharged.

She was jailed pending the outcome of the wound.

WAR BOOTY CAPTURED BY JAPS FROM GERMANY

Tokio, December 3.—A list of the war booty captured by Japan at Tsing-Tau, the German stronghold in China, was made public by army headquarters today. It includes 2,000 rifles, 100 machine guns, 20 field guns, all needing repair; a small amount of ammunition, $6,000 in cash, 15,000 tons of coal, 40 automobiles and provisions sufficient to feed 5,000 persons for three months. All ships in the harbor, it is announced, were destroyed.

Big Carnival Ball Draws Thousands to Auditorium; Unique Costumes Are Worn

Will Be Annual Event.

St. Elmo Massengale, president of the Atlanta Ad Men, was so pleased last night over the tremendous success of the hog and hominy carnival and the dance at the Auditorium that he announced at midnight that the Ad Men would make an annual event of the hog and hominy carnival and stage it next year on a bigger scale.

"It will rival Mardi Gras next year," he said. "From this very moment on we are going to plan and work to make it the south's biggest and greatest season of carnival."

On every hand the Ad Men are being given the glad hand for the hit they have scored with the day and night of revelry that they afforded Atlanta and the corn show crowds.

Everybody knows the Hog and Hominy dance at the Auditorium last night was one tremendous pyrotechnic affair, and that everybody revelled in music and dance and good fellowship, but who in that madly whirling 6,000 people knew the little Apache maid dressed in a crimson suit of Parisian trousers, who pirounetted over the floor daring any body to outdance her?

There are at least a score of men about-town and men of varied other walks of life who are asking themselves and each other the same question today. They danced with the haughty miss and pleaded with her to unmask. They followed in her wake like moths about a flame. She was only a bit of a lass, slender, but not too slender, with a chin fit for a goddess and a coiffure of jet-black tresses.

The mystified 6,000 kept 12,000 wondering eyes upon her as she dipped and trotted over the spacious floor, tripping lightly through the seething swarm of dancers and clinging with elfish abandon to the arm of a puzzled partner. There were costumes of every variety upon the floor, but none so bright, none so daring as hers. Everybody unmasked at midnight. But, like the Cinderella stealing away at the fatal stroke of twelve, she flitted out of view in the maze of dance-mad revellers, eluding a dozen tuxedoed admirers who trailed in her path and begged her to unmask.

Enigma of the Dance.

She was the enigma of the dance. And an enigma she will likely remain forever. She might have been a maid of Peachtree, of the cricus, of the chorus, of anywhere—but who knows?

Never has Atlanta enjoyed such a feast of music and dance and revelry as last night. Never has society made merry so genuinely with shoulders rubbed against those of the more democratic lower classes. Never have the two elements enjoyed each other's company so sincerely.

Truly, it was the south's greatest dance. It was remarkable in as many respects as there were dancers on the floor—and there were 1,200 at a time. At times the sounds of the gliding feet rose to such measure that the music of the twelve-piece orchestra was drowned.

It was as great a pleasure to sit in the arena or balconies and watch as it was to dance. It seemed nothing short of miraculous that such a massive jam of people could move about in the pack, yet there were hundreds who executed artistic steps in the midst of the turbulent sea of humanity.

The coronation of the king and queen was an impressive feature. The royal party, escorted by the reception and floor committees of the Ad Men's club, arrived at 9 o'clock and was led to the big stage. The dance floor had been cleared and the spectators were lined in the arena and balconies. To the stirring strains of national and popular airs, the line marched upon the stage amidst resonant applause that seemed as though it would rend asunder the building.

Queen Is Crowned.

Lindsay Hopkins was crowned king and Miss Wyckliffe Wurm queen. Miss Wurm had been nominated queen by the Ad Men committee yesterday at noon when the total votes showed her a favorite. Mrs. William Lawson Peel, garbed in resplendent regal robes, played the role of chaperon. Patronesses of the queen were Mrs. Frank Inman, Mrs. J. R. Gray, Mrs. Clark Howell, Mrs. John E. Murphy, Mrs. Frank S. Ellis, Mrs. Ernest Woodruff, Mrs. William H. Kiser, Mrs. Walter Rich, Mrs. H. L. DeGive, Mrs. John W. Grant, Mrs. Benjamin Elsas, Mrs. Wilmer Moore, and Mrs. Walter P. Andrews.

The royal court presented an inspiring spectacle. Special dances before the royal party were given by Miss Blackshear and Captain Palmer. Miss Moulton and Mr. Bell, Miss Hopper and Mr. Cooper. Their respective performances were the Ta-Tao, Argentine tango, Pavlowa gavotte and Miss Blackshear's Oriental dance. Each dance received encore after encore.

Some of the costumes that appeared on the floor were captivatingly original, some captivatingly daring. It was a full dress affair for those who cared to wear that sort of dress. For those who didn't, they could wear any sort of dress at all, just so they were dressed. There were Oriental maids in scrim and netting; Carmens in trousers; Yama-yama lasses, clowns, cowboys and cowgirls and—

The little Apache maid.

PROTECTED BY POLICE, HE FILLED HIS POCKETS

Ryan Paid $400 Monthly for Protection Out of Swindling Receipts of Over $3,000.

Chicago, December 3.—In spite of $400 monthly payment for police protection, Frank Ryan, alleged head of a clairvoyant ring that operated in Chicago until recently, had rather a good thing of it here, and his personal share of swindling receipts averaged from $3,000 to $6,000 a month, he told MacLay Hoyne, state's attorney, in a written confession made public tonight. In addition to regular monthly police payments, Ryan said, he paid an average of $25 to $100 weekly to help buy flowers for policemen who had lost members of their families.

Ryan was captured in Detroit a few weeks ago. It was partly on the strength of Ryan's confession, according to the state's attorney, that Hoyne has offered Captain Halpin, former chief of detectives and a score of his men, a chance to resign.

Ryan paid his protection money, he said, through Barney Bertsche, a Chicago ward politician.

"When I first came to Chicago in 1911, I paid $300 a month for police protection," he said. "For my end I usually got from $3,000 to $6,000 monthly. Once I cleaned up $56,000 in three months.

"I can't kick on the police not giving me the protection I paid for.

"During the year and a half I was in business here I never had to go to a police station. Whenever there was a complaint against me, the police always telephoned they were coming and I would take the afternoon off. A partner would be shown and the complainant couldn't identify him."

Ryan's brother, James, a member of the so-called trust, was convicted here on a charge of working a confidence game.

Bertsche is under indictment in connection with the same case.

Ryan will submit the confession to the grand jury tomorrow, according to Hoyne.

BANK SAFE WRECKED BY NITRO-GLYCERINE

Explosion Destroyed the Bank Building at Nichols, S. C. Three Men Arrested.

Mullins, S. C., December 3.—Three explosions from charges of nitroglycerine practically destroyed the bank building of Nichols, 5 miles from here, when the safe was blown open by yeggmen at 2:30 o'clock this morning. Portions of the heavy safe door were hurled into the ceiling, tearing through the roof. All windows in the bank were shattered and the building was generally demolished.

Just how much money was taken cannot yet be determined. The final charge, which was to open an inner chest containing the money, was so powerful that 1,300 one-dollar bills were torn into shreds. Of the $1,854 in currency in the safe, $36.64 was picked up in the debris this morning.

Three men have been arrested. Two, coming from the direction of Nichols, were arrested early this morning by Policeman Byrd. Another, giving his name as Tom Reynolds and his home as Richmond, Va., was arrested at Pee Dee by Officers Berry and Davis.

Several shots were exchanged with the robbers when the bank was being robbed. Later, when the yeggmen were leaving, Carl Griffin came to the porch and inquired what the trouble was. The answer was one or two shots, fired at him by the escaping safe-blowers.

PLEA FOR HARRY THAW BY EX-SECRETARY KNOX

Washington, December 3.—The long list of attorneys who have fought for liberty for Harry K. Thaw ever since the murder of Sanford White, was added to today when Philander C. Knox, former secretary of state and attorney general of the United States, filed in the supreme court a brief in advocacy of that court affirming the action of the New Hampshire federal court in refusing to allow Thaw to be extradited from New Hampshire to New York.

Mr. Knox contends in his brief that the record shows Thaw is insane and that the state of New York is therefore seeking to extradite an insane person to answer for the alleged offense of walking out of an insane asylum, notwithstanding it is a fundamental principle of law that extradition proceedings may not be used to accomplish anything else than the return of a fugitive criminal for trial. He adds that a New York jury has declared that Thaw committed no crime in the murder of Sanford White, because he was insane. He takes the position that the action of New York in insisting upon the extradition seemingly evinced a disposition to take vengeance on the accused for his alleged initial crime.

The fact that Thaw and his friends have been able to employ counsel and the alleged wealth of the Thaw family are pronounced by Mr. Knox as unworthy of consideration in the presence of the supreme court.

SHIPS IN COLLISION; ONE GOES TO BOTTOM

Deal, England, December 3.—(Via London.)—During one of the fiercest gales on record, the Dutch steamer Batjan, of 6,000 tons gross, from Java, went ashore last night on Goodin sands after a collision with an unidentified steamer.

The weather was so bad that the life-savers were unable to launch their boat until early today, when they rescued the Batjan's crew with difficulty. The captain believes that the colliding steamer sank with all on board.

DARING BURGLARS KEEP POLICE BUSY

Negro Enters the Store of J. B. Scott and Engages in Pistol Duel With the Proprietor.

Robbers and hold-up men got busy in Atlanta last night and had a joyful time looting residences of citizens. Their operations were also marked by a couple of bold attempts at highway robbery.

A tall negro, brandishing a pistol in wild western style over his head, swaggered into the grocery store of J. B. Scott, 116 Frazier street, and was only repulsed in his daring attempt to rob after eight or ten shots were exchanged.

When the negro ordered him to open the cash register, Mr. Scott reached for his pistol. The black fired at him, the bullet missing him by an inch. Scott fired once and when the negro fled ran out of the store and gave chase east on Rawson street, firing the remaining cartridges.

Negro Makes Escape.

Call Officers Dodd and Shumate answered Mr. Scott's call for police aid, but the negro had made good his flight.

The supply of coal in the coal house of Mrs. Ida C. Ramsey, of 18 Prospect place, was diminished by the amount of one wagonload, when robbers looted it last night, and even were so bold as to use shovels to shovel the load of coal into the wagon.

The residence of Mrs. W. M. Weathers, 105 Park street, West End, was entered by thieves and robbed of three savings banks, containing a total of $35; a diamond brooch, valued at $50, and a Smith & Wesson pistol.

Mrs. Weathers was out of the city, but her mother, Mrs. T. M. DeLany, and her sister, Miss Jessie DeLany, had gone to watch the Hog and Hominy parade. When they returned, about 6 o'clock, they found that the house had been looted. Detectives Cochran and Call Officers Gantt and Evans made an investigation.

Henry S. Johnson, of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company, reported Thursday to the police that on Tuesday night his home at 695 Peachtree street had been burglarized and robbed of several pieces of valuable jewelry.

Steals Diamond Rings.

Mr. Johnson stated that while his wife and a number of friends were talking in the parlor of his home a thief rummaged through the house quietly and got away with two diamond rings and a gold watch. The thief obtained entrance into the house by cutting the wire screen of the window to Mrs. Johnson's bedroom.

The negro delivery boy of the saloon of Pete Brown, 150 Decatur street, reported to the police that he was knocked down by two negroes and robbed of $1.10. Call Officers Dodd and Shumate did not believe the story of the robbery he told to them, however, and arrested him. He gave his name at police station as Clarence Fields, 19 years old, of 150 Auburn avenue.

His employer, Mr. Brown, heard of his arrest and came to police headquarters. Mr. Brown declared that the boy had always been honest and expressed surprise that the police should not accept Fields' story.

ON TIGHT SKIRTS FASHION'S DECREE PUTS AN EMBARGO

Toledo, Ohio, December 3.—Women will quit wearing tight skirts. Such is fashion's decree for next spring and summer.

The makers of American styles for women have decided on that point and will confirm their decision at the twenty-fifth semi-annual convention of the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' association, which will open here tomorrow.

Statements tonight were that Milady will wear a tailor-made suit with plenty of plaits in the skirt.

Styles will be much more severe and practical. The coat must be short—about 24 inches—with ordinary sleeves, and of a plain quiet color. Skirts will be about 6 inches from the ground.

If she prefers a single coat to wear with skirt and shirt waist it shall be full from the waist down, with belted effects and patch pockets.

FAIR ORDER IS KEPT IN MEXICAN CAPITAL

Washington, December 3.—Provisional President Gutierrez and General Villa and several military chiefs have gone from Mexico City to Cuernavaca to discuss with General Zapata the distribution of forces in the capital and vicinity.

This was reported today in official dispatches to the state department, which said conditions in Mexico City were quiet.

"Zapatistas patrol the city," said an announcement from the state department summarizing official messages dated late last night. "The army of the north is encamped in the suburbs. No further molestation of foreigners has occurred and fair order is being maintained. There has been no friction."

General Villa, according to the dispatches, has ordered that no private property be occupied without the consent of the owners.

While the Mexican railroad east from Mexico City has been damaged by Carranza troops, official dispatches say the British-owned railway system was left intact, and has been restored to the company's management.

The state department was informed that General Carranza and General Candido Aguilar went to Jalapa three days ago on an inspection trip.

BIG PARADE HELD DESPITE WEATHER

Great Crowds Line Sidewalks to Witness Splendid Features of the Hog and Hominy Pageant.

ANNOUNCE PRIZES TODAY.

Owing to the terrific downpour of rain, the court ladies of the Hog and Hominy Carnival, who are the judges of the floats in the parade, were unable to review the entire parade from the portico of the Capital City club yesterday. Therefore no decision was reached as to the winners of the parade prizes Thursday afternoon. Winners of the prizes will be announced after a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building this morning at 10 o'clock.

You have to give them credit!

For weeks the Ad Men, who accepted the daddyship of the Hog and Hominy carnival, had been working and planning for the big parade on Thursday of the week of the corn show.

Thursday dawned misty, continued misty, but refused to rain a drop until 2:30 o'clock, which was the hour set for the starting of the parade from the state capitol. Then it rained. Nay more, the windows of heaven opened and the floods descended!

But if the weather kept a single feature of the big parade from being in line, only the Ad Men know it.

Great Crowd Sees Parade.

With braying band and splendor of all manner of carnival caparisons, the parade—a mile long—set out from the state capitol and paraded through Whitehall and Peachtree streets, while bedraggled but admiring multitudes lined the curbs by the thousands and stood under dripping umbrellas to see the spectacle pass.

The people who saw the parade were undoubtedly quite as much disappointed as the Ad Men that it just had to rain.

First came Chief Beavers, followed by all the glory of a mounted squadron of "Beavers' Best." Next in order was the Fifth infantry with its band and three battalions. Marist college and the Georgia Military academy cadets followed. The rear of the first division was brought up by the boy scouts and the Governor's Horse guards and ambulances.

Leading the second division was the Eagles' drum corps. And next came the old guard of the Gate City guard, under command of Col. George M. Napier, acting as an escort to the queen of the carnival and her court ladies, who wisely decided to leave their splendid robes off until the ball at night.

Came then the king of the carnival and the gentlemen-in-waiting.

The court party, with the corn clubs boys, who followed, fell out of the line at the Capital City club and watched the procession pass in review.

Boys Enjoy Parade.

A word must be said about the corn club boys. They, if anybody, enjoyed the parade to the fullest extent, and their hardihood in all probability withstood the downpour of rain better than all. Typical of the care-free spirit with which these youngsters from the farm entered into the occasion was a boy who walked along with all nonchalance under a parasol with a twelve-foot handle.

After the corn club boys came the Atlanta drum corps, with numbers almost as strong as they had during Shrine week, when they made themselves a permanent place in Atlanta's history.

One feature of the parade was the part taken by William M. Slaton, superintendent of Atlanta's schools, who rode on horseback for two miles in the drenching rain at the head of the Tech High school and Boys' High school students. These students marched with good grace and military precision, and never broke ranks during the long march, in spite of the rain that poured in torrents.

In the third division was all the dignity and solemnity of the city, this

Yes, there'll be a Christmas this year in the home of W. E. Ormond at 53 Cooper street, for there happens to be in Atlanta such a thing as a "Good Fellow" clan. They know how to enjoy Christmas, for they know that genuine happiness lies in the art of making others happy.

Consequently, the Ormond home, with its eight children and mother, destitute and fatherless, will bear only with the grief of their lost parent this Christmas, but they won't have to face the double misery of destitution and hunger.

Following The Constitution's donation of $25 Thursday morning for a Christmas fund to the Ormond family, the total sum of $107 has already been subscribed, and more will come in today. The "Good Fellow" is responding nobly, and he is driving the wolf from the Ormond door and putting in his stead the cheer and radiance of Christmas.

Situation Unbearable.

When W. E. Ormond, the father and husband, was shot and killed last Saturday night, his stricken family of eight children—all of whom are young and only one of whom is able to work and provide sustenance for his home—faced a situation that would quickly become unbearable.

The father, a paralytic, had labored in the mechanic's shop. The family has never enjoyed even moderate living. They have always had to pinch and scrimp and deny themselves. But, when the father met death at a negro's hand, in defense of his wife, their plight was pitiable. The only working member was serving his apprenticeship, making only a pittance.

And this was all the resources the home could fall back upon.

Added to all this, the eldest girl, a cripple, needed medical attention. It was even possible to restore her to normal health if she could get the proper surgical aid. But the family's destitution was so great that they could not give her the attention she needed to keep glowing the meager spark of life in her twisted body.

The children range all the way from 2 years to 20. The boy of 20 is the lone support. The others are much younger, and the mother cannot go out to work because she is so badly needed at home. With but a few pennies in the little tin box on the mantle, and with less food back in the kitchen, the Ormonds were facing starvation.

$107 Won't Last Long.

Remember that this $107 won't last long out at No. 53 Cooper! It is merely a starter. There must be more, otherwise the wolf will come back to the door. It is up to all who believe in the old "Do unto others" axiom. One hundred and seven dollars doesn't go so far toward taking care of eight young children and a mother.

Atlanta has too many good fellows to permit the Ormond home to fall into the depths of poverty. There are too many of them to allow poverty and suffering to drive the cheer of Christmas away from the hearts of the hungry children who have never been taught that there isn't any such thing as Santa Claus, because the mother clung to the threadbare hope that some day there would be a sunrise in the home instead of perpetual nightfall.

They have enough to endure out there at 53 Cooper besides the absence of Christmas cheer. Their father is gone and their greatest support. The larder is well-nigh empty.

The Atlanta Federation of Trades initiated the movement to give adequate relief to the family, and has aided in every way possible. The machinists of Atlanta have done their part.

Listen, people, it's up to you! Who's next?

GERMANS DASHING IN FRESH EFFORT TO BREAK CENTER OF RUSSIAN ARMY

Fresh Forces Have Been Brought Up by the Kaiser and a New Battle Has Developed Southwest of Lodz in Poland.

RUSSIANS AT CRACOW; HEAVY GUNS MOUNTED TO BOMBARD THE FORTS

Whatever the Outcome of Battle in Poland, Germans Must Soon Turn Attention to the Russians in Galicia Who Are Threatening Silesia--Fighting in Belgium and France Largely Confined to the Artillery, Though the French Report Some Gains on Their Right Wing.

London, December 3.—With the lull in the battle in the west, which has become a heavy cannonade at widely separated points with only occasional infantry attacks, interest centers in the struggle between the Russians and Germans in the east.

At last the Russians have approached within firing distance of Cracow, their advance from Przemysl having proceeded without any real check. They were reported today to be mounting heavy batteries around the town of Wieliczka, which they occupied yesterday, and from which the outer forts of Cracow can be reached.

Important as this is—for the fall of Cracow would lay open the roads to Vienna, Breslau and Berlin—the main interest in the east continues to rest with the operations on the irregular front from Czenstochowa through Lodz and Lowicz to the East Prussian border. Official pronouncements as to progress here are guarded and indefinite, and it is difficult to arrive at a conclusion as to the course of events.

GERMANS DRIVE AT RUSS CENTER.

It is apparent, however, that a new battle has developed southwest of Lodz, where the Germans have formed a new line with fresh forces brought from Kalisc and are again trying to penetrate the Russian center.

The Russians, too, have had time to straighten out their line, and, in the eyes of the allies, another battle following so closely that just concluded in this region must help them in the long run, for, it is argued, win or lose, the Germans must be further weakened, and, in addition, soon will have to turn their attention to the Russian offensive against Silesia and around Cracow.

On the other hand, German experts believe that defeat for the Russians would enable the German generals to unite all their forces for another blow against the allies in the west.

The first Australian and New Zealand contingents have been landed in Egypt for operations against the Turks, and Portuguese reinforcements have reached Angola to take the offensive against the Germans on their African borders.

King George was on the firing line in France today. Emperor William, who recently visited his troops in East Prussia, is now said to be in Breslau, Silesia, where he conferred with Archduke Frederick, commander of the Austro-Hungarian army.

The political event of the day was the premier of Italy's announcement that nothing had intervened to prompt Italy to alter her policy of neutrality.

DOGGED GRINDING BY THE GERMANS.

Petrograd, December 3.—The following official statement was issued tonight from general headquarters:

"Fighting continues in certain districts along the front in the region of Lowicz. Important forces of the enemy, chiefly troops transported in November from the German west front, opened an offensive December 2 in the region of Lioutomersk and Sezerzow.

"On the rest of the front on the left bank of the Vistula, there is no particular modification in the situation.

"Beyond the Carpathians our troops have taken Bartfeld, capturing eight officers, 1,200 men and 6 machine guns."

The Warsaw campaign of the Germans, which evidently was an attempt on the part of the invaders to carry everything before them by the swiftness and the boldness of the operations of a comparatively limited number of troops, appears today to competent military experts in Petrograd to have resolved itself into a persistent and dogged grinding against the Russian center, making use of the recently arrived heavy reinforcements to this end.

The main attempt appears to be centering around Lodz, and the German wings are seemingly intent only on holding the Russians against flanking operations.

The military commentator of the Novoe Vremya draws attention to what he calls a tactical error on the part of the Austrians in withdrawing such a large portion of the army defeated in Galicia across the Carpathian mountains into Hungary, the Russians meanwhile confining themselves to holding the passes into the Hungarian plain. Thus the Austrians have comparatively few troops to withstand the large Russian army and to protect Cracow. At the same time other operations to the southward are tying up large Austro-Hungarian forces on the roads to Budapest.

LITTLE DOING, BERLIN REPORTS.

Berlin, December 3.—(Via Wireless to London.)—Today's official statement was limited to the following brief announcement:

"In neither theater of war has anything of importance happened."

The following information was given out by the official news bureau today:

"Unofficial advices from Alsace say fighting is progressing actively in this minor war theater. A heavy cannonading is going on in Sundgau. The Germans are advancing against Belfort.

"The Austrians report officially a repulse to the besiegers of Przemsyl, Galicia. The garrison made a sortie against the Russians and drove them back from the outer fortifications.

"Fighting continues in the Carpathian passes.

"Although no news is being received concerning operations about Lowicz, Russian Poland, it is assumed German attempts to flank the Russian right wing are continuing. The great value of such a move would consist in forcing the Russians southward away from the route toward Warsaw and into the rear of the Russian main army. Much depends on the progress made by the Germans and Austrians on the front and on the enemy's left. So far they have maintained their positions and repulsed all attacks, but whether they have advanced is not known. The Russians' loss the last few days of 100,000 captives and many guns is considered by local critics as bound to weaken them seriously."

NOTABLE GAINS MADE BY FRENCH.

Paris, December 3.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"The only interesting news relates to our right wing and to the day of December 2. On the right bank of the river Moselle we have occupied Lesmenils and the Signal of Xon. In the Vosges our troops have captured the Tete de Faux, south of the village Bonhomme, which dominates the range of hills forming the frontier and has served as an observatory for the Germans. In Alsace the station of Burnhaupt has been occupied and we have established ourselves on a line comprising Aspach, the bridge of Aspach and Burnhaupt."

The official report given out this afternoon says that yesterday there was a rather lively artillery exchange at Nieuport and to the south of Ypres, and that a heavy bombardment took place to the west of Lens. In the Argonne several German attacks were repulsed. Otherwise the situation shows little change. The text of the communication follows:

"In Belgium there was a rather lively artillery fire directed against Nieuport and to the south of Ypres.

"The inundations have extended to the south of Dixmude.

"From the Lys to the Somme there has been a violent bombardment, particularly at Aix-Noulette, to the west of Lens.

"There was quiet along the entire front from the Somme to the Aisne and in Champagne.

"In the Argonne several attacks on the part of the enemy were repulsed, and we made slight progress.

"In the Woevre district the German artillery evidenced a certain activity, but with insignificant results.

"In Lorraine and in the Vosges there is nothing important to report."

WOMEN CAPTURED GARBED AS SOLDIERS.

London, December 4.—(3:30 a. m.)—A Petrograd dispatch to The Morning Post says:

"The news that Russian troops have taken Wieliczka, three miles from the outer fortifications of Cracow, seems to indicate there is something wrong with the defenses of that fortress, as Wieliczka should be well within the range of the minor armaments of a first-class fort.

"Forty prisoners among others taken by the Cossacks at Czenstochowa were found to be women in soldiers uniforms."

GERMANS RAFTED TO THEIR DOOM.

London, December 4.—(3:25 a. m.)—In the dark hours before dawn Wednesday a large force of Germans crossed the flood waters of the Yser on rafts, says The Daily News correspondent in northern France.

The adventure was a desperate one; not a man who set out could have been ignorant of the fact that death almost certainly awaited him. The rafts were punted through the waters in dead silence and in utter darkness. Each carried fifty or sixty men and some machine guns.

The plot was discovered and when daybreak arrived the artillery of the allies met the advancing Germans with a devastating fire. Yet, despite their losses, the Germans, brave even to madness, still essayed the crossing until midday. Several rafts were upset in midstream and a great number of Germans were drowned, while others were shot.

Fierce fighting still is taking place, adds the correspondent. The Germans are concentrating the attack principally north of Ypres. They have withdrawn their heavy artillery because of the mud, and are using light guns mounted on motor lories.

ARMED NEUTRALTIY STILL ITALY'S GAME

During the Premier's Address There Were Cheers for Belgium, Trent and Trieste.

Rome, December 3.—The Italian parliament opened today. The sittings of both the chamber of deputies and the senate were witnessed by a large gathering of deeply interested spectators. Among those present were the former premiers Giolitti, Luzzatti and Polloux. The diplomatic tribune was overcrowded.

Premier Salandra made a statement in which he explained the situation of Italy and advised that she maintain an attitude of loyal, but watchful and armed neutrality. He was frequently applauded.

Premier Salandra stated that there was no new factor in the situation in the course of development at present which would prompt Italy to alter her policy of neutrality.

When Premier Salandra alluded to what he termed the just aspirations of Italy, the whole extreme left arose, crying "Viva Trent! Viva Triest!" The spectators in the tribunes joined in the demonstration.

The premier's statement was interrupted frequently with applause. It was noticed that former Premier Giolitti joined with the deputies in their expressions of approval.

As the session was about to adjourn Deputy Comandini said that he wished to ask the chamber to send greetings to "heroic and unfortunate Belgium." The whole chamber, including the president, the ministers and the people in the tribunes, arose and shouted "Hurrah, Belgium!"

Premier Salandra said the European conflict broke out suddenly without involving Italy directly and in spite of her efforts to avert the war for the sake of peace and civilization. A careful study of her treaty obligations and the causes of the conflict convinced the government that Italy was not called on to participate and she accordingly declared her neutrality. In view of the necessity of protecting Italian interests, however, a declaration of neutrality alone was not sufficient to safeguard the country against contingencies.

The political divisions of the continent of Europe, the premier pointed out, perhaps were about to be modified. Italy, he added, has vital interests to protect, and aspires to maintain her position as a great power and to preserve intact her policies. She therefore must be watchful, powerful and ready for any eventuality. The supreme task of the government was to bring the army and navy to a state of preparedness, since, when law ceases to govern, the only safety of a nation is in force. Italy must be ready to protect herself.

The premier announced that economic conditions had been ameliorated. He asked that the people be ready to make any sacrifice and that political differences be set aside. The government would consider it entirely improper, he said, to consider solely the policies of any one party and accordingly requested the patriotic co-operation of all members of parliament that it might possess the strength necessary to accomplish the hard task before it.

Debate at Wesley Memorial.

The young men of the Wesley Memorial Methodist Sunday school will tonight try to solve the mooted question of whether lawyers or ministers are more useful to society. The debate will be in the main auditorium of the church, at 8 o'clock. The question for debate is: "Resolved, That Lawyers Are More Useful Members of Society Than Ministers." The affirmative will be upheld by J. G. C. Bloodworth and H. W. Chambers. The champions of the negative are R. C. David and B. K. Pegues.

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

According to this it would seem that a medicine for the kidneys, possessing real healing and curative properties, would be a blessing to thousands.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who prepare Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the well-known kidney, liver and bladder remedy, claim that judging from evidence received from druggists everywhere, who are constantly in touch with their customers, and also indisputable proof in the form of grateful testimonial letters from thousands of reliable citizens, this preparation is remarkably successful in sickness caused by kidney and bladder troubles. Every interesting statement they receive regarding Swamp-Root is investigated and no testimonial is published unless the party who sends it is reported of good character. They have on file many sworn statements of recoveries in the most distressing cases. They state that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is mild and gentle in its action and its healing influence is soon noticed in most cases.

Swamp-Root is purely an herbal compound and Dr. Kilmer & Co. advise all readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes—50c. and $1.00. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention The Atlanta Daily Constitution.

INTERNED BELGIANS RIOTING IN HOLLAND

London, December 3.—Dutch troops killed six Belgians and wounded nine today when rioting broke out at the Belgian detention camp at Zeist, Holland, according to Hetvolk, published at Amsterdam. This dispatch reached London from Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam.

Troops have been sent from Utrecht to strengthen the guard at Zeist.

Colonel Collard, commandant of the Zeist camp, says the first signs of unrest in the camp, which contains 6,000 Belgians, were discerned yesterday, when three men tried to escape.

The excitement grew and discontent became augmented when the men learned they would not be allowed to see their wives outside of certain fixed hours. They also complained that the canteen prices were too high and yesterday they stormed the canteen.

Early today the trouble broke out afresh and the canteen again was stormed and cleared of its contents. Finally Dutch troops arrived and, after the rioters had been warned, the soldiers, by order, fired two volleys.

BIRDMAN DROPS BOMBS ON THE KRUPP FACTORY

Airmen Escape Uninjured. Extent of Injury to Kaiser Gun Works Unknown.

London, December 3.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company quotes a message from Berlin to the effect that the Krupp factory at Essen, Germany, was bombarded yesterday by an aeronaut.

It is said that bombs were dropped from the aeroplane on the buildings devoted to the manufacture of cannon. The airmen escaped uninjured and the extent of the damage has not been ascertained.

GAS RATE TOO HIGH, SAYS ELECTRICIAN

Turner Again Asserts Gas Company Makes 22 Per Cent, Contradicting Statement of Arkwright.

Interest in the fight being waged by the Gas Consumers' league, headed by City Electrician R. C. Turner, against the Atlanta Gas Light company, for a reduction of its present $1 per 1,000 cubic feet rate, was intensified Thursday when both sides made strong statements in defense of their attitudes.

In a statement in denial of almost every allegation made by the city electrician, the Gas company asserts that its earnings on its investment amounts to only 7.51 per cent on its total investment. Turner came back in a communication in which he contends that the profits of the company amount to 22 per cent on the total investment.

President Arkwright, of the Georgia Railway and Power company, declared Thursday that it is beyond the pale of consideration to grant a reduction, and gives as his reason the fact that revenues are falling off. Mr. Arkwright said that officials of the company will appear before the investigating committee of council Friday night and argue its contentions, and at the same time endeavor to convince members of the committee that the attitude of the company toward the consumer is fair and considerate.

Turner's Statement.

City Electrician Turner, replying to the statement issued by the Atlanta Gas Light company relating to the investigation now in progress to secure an 80-cent rate in Atlanta, said:

"The published statement says that the gas company has no ax to grind, but the people of the city of Atlanta have a big ax to grind and are going to grind it. He says that the present effort to secure a reduction in the rate is the effort of a few. I disagree with him, for the reason that I have a petition signed by 1,200 gas consumers asking council to appropriate $5,000 for the purpose of making an investigation of the business of this concern, and this petition could be brought up to 22,000, as there is a general demand throughout the city for a reduction in Atlanta.

"As to the assertion that the company is not making 22 per cent on the money actually invested, the figures used by me, namely, showing a profit in the past three years of $1,141,107.13, were taken from the records of the railroad commission, on the sworn statements of the officials of the Atlanta Gas Light company to the commission. They also term this in their statement as net profits, and the only capitalization the company shows is $600,000 preferred stock and $1,010,000 common stock.

"As to the company's practice of requiring the consumers to make a deposit of $5 on every gas or electric meter, I contend that the company should not force such an imposition on the people, but should be forced to do business on the same principle as any other concern.

What Is Requirement.

"The company says that the consumer is under a contract and that the $5 deposit is required to insure fulfillment of a contract. I would like to know what the people are required to fulfil. Is the requirement that they shall not complain when their gas bills are greatly in excess of the service they receive, or are they required to pay whatever is demanded of them by the Atlanta Gas Light company?

"If there must be a deposit I would suggest that the Atlanta Gas Light company be forced to put up that deposit with the consumer. What guarantee does the company give the people that the gas supplied is up to the standard as to candlepower or heating units, and what redress is available when the company fails to give any service at all, which is frequent when there is trouble at any of the plants.

"As to the assertion of the company that the rate now imposed on the people is not exorbitant, I leave it to the people to judge whether they have answered my statement that the company is manufacturing gas for 27 cents, or less, per 1,000 cubic feet, and retailing this same gas at $1.

"I maintain that no city has ever succeeded in getting a lower rate until a fight was started. This applies to Baltimore, where the rate is now 80 cents. The Atlanta Gas Light company is but one of the scores of companies controlled by the United Gas Improvement company, of Philadelphia, which is known to have never cut its rate until forced by clamor of the people.

Contention of Company.

"The Atlanta Gas Light company contends that one of the reasons the rate is higher here than other cities is because other cities enjoying a lower rate are located closer to the coal mines. The United States report of the bureau of commerce shows that it requires only about 200 pounds of coal to produce a thousand cubic feet of gas, and according to these figures the Atlanta Gas Light company could get all its coal by parcel post and still be able to sell gas cheaper than its present rate.

"The Atlanta Gas Light company asserts that one of the reasons its rate is higher than Baltimore is because Baltimore has 166 connections per mile, while Atlanta only has 105.

"I maintain that if the company will cut its rate to 80 cents it will double Baltimore's service, and I am not alone in the contention, because the manager of the Birmingham gas works recently made the statement that if the rate in that city be reduced to 75 cents he could add 12,000 new customers. The reason the Atlanta company has not as many customers as Baltimore is because its rate is too high.

"If the comptroller general assesses the gas company franchise as being worth $700,000, why does the company return it to the city tax assessors as being worth only $20,000. These figures are taken from the returns of 1913.

No Stock for Sale.

"Despite the figures quoted by the company purporting to show the earning in proportion to its investment, I still maintain that the company's profits are 22 per cent on the money actually invested. If the company's profit is less than 8 per cent, why is it that it is impossible to purchase stock?

"As to the rates published by the company of $1 for the first 10,000 cubic feet, and 90 cents for the next 20,000, 80 cents for the next 20,000, and 70 cents for all over 50,000, I maintain that this schedule of rates is a joke. It does not affect over 5 per cent of the consumers, as 95 per cent are paying $1 per 1,000 feet straight.

"Now, just one final word in answer to the gas company's absurd query. Of course the company can afford to reduce its rate, and it is certain that the people can afford to have them reduced. Otherwise, there would be no necessity of making a fight."

JOHN BURKE INDICTED FOR ACCEPTING BRIBES

New York, December 3.—Additional indictments against John Burke, an employee of the Isthmian canal commission, as manager of the commissary department, were returned today by the federal grand jury which has been investigating alleged frauds in the canal zone. In them Burke is charged with accepting two bribes totalling nearly $10,000.

The first indictment charges that Burke accepted a bribe of $5,866 from Arthur Goldsmith, member of a Hanover, Germany, firm, for passing a consignment of supplies. The second indictment alleges that he accepted a bribe of $4,000 from P. Canavaggie, a merchant of Colon, for passing wines and other supplies intended for use in the canal zone.

Burke appeared in the criminal branch of the United States district court and entered pleas of not guilty. He was required to furnish new bonds of $14,000, which makes the total bail in his case $38,000. In a dozen or more indictments Burke is charged with receiving bribes aggregating about $21,000.

CHANGES ARE PROPOSED IN ARMY PRISON POLICY

Washington, December 3.—Sweeping changes in federal military prison policy are proposed in a recommendation Secretary Garrison has submitted to congress. The plan, designed for inclusion in the army appropriation bill, would change the name of the United States military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., to "The United States Disciplinary Barracks," and extend the federal paroling system. It would abolish the board of commissioners which governs prisons and provide that its duties shall be performed by the secretary of war or by officers he might designate.

NO UNDUE DETENTION OF AMERICAN VESSELS

British Ambassador Discusses Search for Contraband With State Department.

Washington, December 3.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, delivered to the state department today a note containing assurances that Great Britain does not intend to delay American ships unduly in searching them for contraband.

Sir Cecil told Secretary Bryan and Counsellor Lansing that meats, cotton and other non-contraband products, light in weight, were often shipped in vessels which require heavier articles such as copper or metals for ballast. The latter usually being stored in the holds of a vessel necessarily prolonged the search. The British ambassador pointed out that every effort would be made to prevent undue delay.

Sir Cecil indicated that an amicable adjustment of the situation probably would be reached, especially if American shippers made it plain on their manifests that copper and other contraband goods shipped with cargoes of meat and food were not destined for trans-shipment through neutral countries to Germany or Austria.

While at the state department, the British ambassador discussed in a general way the English wool embargo. He had no definite advices as to the conclusions of his government on the subject, but felt sure that an arrangement soon would be made whereby American merchants could through special permits obtain Australian wool on guarantees that the product would not be re-exported to enemies of Great Britain.

Steamer Ban Is Detained.

London, December 3.—Lloyd's agency declared today that the Norwegian steamer Ban, which reached Liverpool from New York, has been taken into custody by the British authorities and is being held as a prize.

New York, December 3.—The steamship Ban was loaded by Barber & Co. of this city. At their office it was said today that word had been received from agents at Liverpool that the ship had merely been detained by British authorities for examination; no word had been received that she had been officially seized as a prize.

The cargo of the Ran, it was said, consisted of varied commodities, among them cotton seed products, copper and leather. Part of the cargo was for Liverpool, the balance for Gothenberg and Malmo. In anticipation of possible inquiry by British authorities as to the shipments aboard the vessel—especially the copper—she was deliberately sent to Liverpool first, the agents here asserted.

POLITICAL MACHINES ARE FRAMED ON JOBS

Chicago, December 3.—More than half the public employees in the United States are in politics and their jobs are the substructure of the great political machines, Richard Henry Dana, of Boston, president of the National Civil Service league, declared here tonight in his annual address at the league's convention.

The extension of civil service rather than the protection of places secured by the system, he explained, is to be the immediate work of the league.

"The whole civil service of the federal government," he said, "includes about 475,000 persons, with an aggregate total salary estimated at $400,000,000 a year. Of this number only 61 per cent are under a strict competitive merit system.

"Add to this the services of the cities, counties and states, there is a grand total of nearly 900,000 appointees, with an aggregate annual salary of $700,000,000, of which the far greater part is still in politics unprotected by civil service laws, and is used to build up political machines."

All the better positions, toegther with the power of awarding contracts and advantages are still available to the political "bosses," he said.

NO FURTHER PROBE OF CALLAWAY'S DEATH

Funeral of the Young Man Was Conducted Thursday Morning.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers and Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford denied late Thursday afternoon that they had expressed to anyone any dissatisfaction with the coroner's verdict of "justifiable homicide" in the killing of James P. Callaway, in the apartment of W. B. Carhart, 850 Peachtree street, Wednesday morning about 1:20 o'clock, by Mr. Carhart.

They both also declared that no member of the Callaway family had insisted upon their making a deeper probe into the tragedy.

"If Major Frank Callaway is dissatisfied with the coroner's verdict, and wants the killing of his brother investigated further, he has not intimated anything of it to me," said Chief Beavers.

"Our detectives are working on the case," said Chief Lanford, "and, of course, if anything new develops in the tragedy, the detective force is liable to take further steps toward an investigation.

"I gave no instructions to either Detective Starnes or Campbell during Thursday to examine Mrs. Carhart, and neither of them has seen her today."

Members of the Callaway family indicated Thursday that they were satisfied with the verdict, and it is likely that the further investigation of the tragedy will be discontinued.

The funeral services over the body of Mr. Callaway were held at Major Frank Callaway's residence, No. 46 East Fourteenth street, Thursday morning. A large number of friends of the family, including many of the most prominent citizens of the city, were present, and the deepest of sorrow was felt in the death of their friend.

Rev. C. B. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, officiated at the funeral. The pallbearers were Henry Kennedy, Julius Jennings, J. L. McLendon, T. J. Lyons, H. Lee Harvey and Stuart Boyd.

Following the funeral the body was taken over the Atlanta & West Point railroad to LaGrange, Ga., for interment in the old family burying ground.

CONVICT IS WILLING TO DARE CANCER VIRUS

Buffalo, N. Y., December 3.—Frank J. Hickey, sent to Auburn prison from Buffalo in December, 1912, to serve from twenty years to life for the murder of Joseph Joseph, a 7-year-old boy, is the prisoner who recently offered, in a letter to Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing prison, to sacrifice himself for inoculation with cancer virus to ascertain whether the disease is contagious.

The first offer was made several months ago to Dr. Roswell Park, of this city, who died a few days later. The letter was turned over to the director of the state cancer laboratory, who referred it to Attorney General Carmody. The attorney general ruled the state could not accept the offer.

Hickey, in his letter, said he made the offer with no idea of possible pardon or commutation of sentence.

HE ESCAPED LYNCHING BY BETRAYING NEGROES

Shreveport, La., December 3.—Kane McKnight, one of the negroes alleged to have been implicated in the murder of Charles M. Hicks, postmaster, at Sylvester, La., was not lynched by a mob which killed two other negroes for the same crime, it was learned here tonight. After the mob had made preparations to kill McKnight, it was stated, the negro made a dash for liberty and escaped across the state line into Texas. Reports today stated that McKnight had been lynched.

Hicks' store, according to the authorities, was ransacked after the postmaster was killed and quantities of supplies have been found in negro cabins in the vicinity. According to reports from Sylvester, other lynchings as a result of the crime are expected.

Sheriff J. P. Flournoy is authority for the statement that McKnight was allowed his liberty for betraying the two negroes who were lynched for the crime. McKnight is said to be in Carthage, Texas.

Ed Harris, another negro alleged to have been involved in the conspiracy against Hicks, was arrested at Sylvester tonight and lodged in the parish prison here.

The table centerpiece was a miniature lake in which gold fish swam, and the border was of ferns and red roses. The red of the roses was repeated in other picturesque details. The place cards were Japanese pictures selected by the hostess during her trip abroad last summer.

Arbor Day at Agnes Scott.

Today, for the first time, Arbor day will be observed at Agnes Scott college. It is at the suggestion of the Woman's club of Atlanta, that this is being done and the senior class has entered with enthusiasm upon the plan. The class has decided upon planting an oak, the oak with all its power of stability and strength. The observance of this day is to be a set and established custom, never again to be passed over. Each senior class will plant the tree while all the classes will be present to enter equally into the spirit of the day. But their duty is not performed with the mere act of planting. This tree will be watched over with the utmost care and attention during the rest of the year, and then, when the seniors have gone and are scattered, their sister classmen, the sophomores, will assume the duty of guarding it well, so that after two years and a half it will be well able to grow and expand alone, taking its place in the world of trees. And so, in after years, when we come back to our Alma mater, we may gather beneath the shade of a spreading tree and talk with pride and pleasure of the day that we made possible the growth of this beautiful piece of nature.

WOODMEN PLANNING GREAT SANITARIUM

Women May Be Admitted Into the Order as Fraternal Members.

Establishment of a great sanitarium at Hot Springs, Ark., or at some equally known health resort, and the reception of women into the order as fraternal members, were the principal topics discussed at Thursday's session of the annual convention of the Eminent Household of Columbian Woodmen, in session at the Piedmont hotel.

The sanitarium idea was introduced by W. B. Hollingsworth, of Arkansas, one of the delegates. The project calls for the building, equipment and maintenance of a sanitarium for the treatment and care of members of the order who may become ill or disabled. The project was discussed pro and con and finally was submitted to the executive committee of the order for its consideration.

The order has approximately 27,000 members in this country. Although it is international in scope, its efforts so far have been confined largely to the south. Twenty-seven states are represented in its membership.

Up to now, women have been admitted to the order, which is a fraternal body, only as "social members." They have been permitted to attend social gatherings of its members, but were not entered as regular members with the privileges of men. Now the suggestion is made that they be admitted on the same footing as men and given the same benefits, except in cases of accident. Accident benefits, it is planned, to turn into maternity benefits. This matter was also turned over to a committee which will probably bring in its recommendations before the household shall adjourn.

J. G. St. Amand, of Atlanta, eminent secretary of the order, in his report, called attention to the growth of the order and of its finances. It paid out in death claims from January 1 to October 31 this year, a total of $264,199; its assets at the close of business October 31 totalled $707,850, an increase of $88,140, compared with the same date a year ago. It has paid out in claims since its organization in 1902, $1,500,000 and has accumulated a reserve fund of about $700,000.

Dr. Prie E. Murray, medical director of Atlanta, in his report, declared that the financial stringency which he says has been apparent all over the country, has not influenced any policy lapses.

To show how Atlanta real estate has been improving in recent years, the order reported that its net income from mortgages on improved real estate in this city has averaged more than 7 per cent a year. The household will continue in session until Saturday.

BOY SCOUTS ARE GIVEN BANQUET BY WOODWARD

About a hundred and twenty-five boy scouts, together with their drum and bugle corps, enjoyed a banquet at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday afternoon after the parade. The banquet was given the boys by David Woodward, president of the local council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Two scouts, W. J. Lee and Ernest Shields, were presented medals of merit. These were given the two youngsters for their exceptional mastery of the requisites of a boy scout.

Among the officials of the boy scout host also present were: Scott Candler, scoutmaster of the Decatur troop; W. F. Buchanan, scoutmaster of the Edgewood troop; Mr. Hallman, scoutmaster of Troop 3; Baker W. Farrar, scoutmaster of Troop 7; Ferd Allen, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 7; James L. Girabeau, scoutmaster of Troop 2; Harry Green, scoutmaster of Troop 5; Joseph Green, secretary and treasurer of the local council of the boy scouts; Bayne Gibson, scout commissioner of Atlanta, and David Woodward, president of the local council of boy scouts.

FLUTE PLAYER APPEARS AT AUDITORIUM SUNDAY

A new departure and one that will no doubt attract special interest will be made in the free concert Sunday afternoon at the Auditorium-Armory. It is the appearance on the program of Emil Medicus, flute virtuoso, who has come to Atlanta to make his home. Mr. Medicus is an associate of the Royal Academy of Music, London, and is known as one of the few truly great modern flute players. He has received several medals from royal patrons in Europe, among them the late King Edward of England and the Duke of Connaught.

Flute solo playing for the past score of years or more has been practically unheard of in musical circles of America, although in times past the flute has been considered one of the best known and best loved of musical instruments. Therefore, the concert Sunday will naturally be looked forward to by Atlanta music lovers with a great deal of interest, mingled somewhat with curiosity.

ATLANTA A. T. O. ALUMNI WILL LUNCH SATURDAY

A get-together luncheon of Atlanta alumni of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity will be held at the Winecoff hotel Saturday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock for the purpose of perfecting plans for the sending of a strong delegation to the twenty-sixth biennial congress of the fraternity which meets in Nashville December 30.

A committee headed by George Barnwell is inviting each of the two hundred or more of the local alumni to be present at the luncheon and those who cannot be reached will be welcomed. Justice Samuel C. Atkinson, of the supreme court, who is president of the alumni association, will preside. It is planned to have regular weekly luncheons.

To the People Themselves:

There's another effort to stir up an attack against this company. We are a public service corporation. As such, we have been considered legitimate prey by the man with an axe to grind. We are going to ask you for fair play, because you can be fair and you will be fair.

This present effort is for a reduction in the rate you pay us for the gas you consume. That rate is now $1.00 per 1,000 cubic feet. The few who are trying to make you appear as making a popular and general demand for reduction, say they believe it should be 80 cents. If they believe that honestly and sincerely, we can convince them that the present rate is right. If they do not believe it honestly and sincerely, if they are using it to further their own interests, we can't convince them.

But we can convince you. And you are the arbiters.

Misstatements have been made—made publicly, through the newspapers.

It has been asserted that we are making 22 per cent on our investment. That is not true. We are making about 7.51 per cent.

It has been asserted that we pay no interest on deposits made by you, and that we are conducting our business with this money deposited by you. Both assertions are not true. You deposit $5 for fulfillment of contract conditions, when you become a customer. We pay you 6 per cent interest, and return it to you with the interest when you have fulfilled the contract. At the present time the total of your deposits, drawing 6 per cent interest from us, is $13,000. Contrast this deposit with the outright purchase you have to make of water-meters at $15 each.

It has been asserted that your gas rate is exorbitant, an excessive rate of return on our investment. That is not true. It is a reasonable rate—reasonable from your standpoint, and reasonable from ours.

We have been called by City Electrician R. C. Turner, from whom we ask no favor, "an octopus, whose tentacles are strangling the consumers of Atlanta." We ask you to judge that loose assertion.

The fact is the rate you pay us for gas is lower than the rate in some cities and higher than the rate in others. If it can be argued that because other cities charge a lower rate, Atlanta's should be cut to their average, it can be argued with equal logic that because still other cities charge a higher rate, Atlanta's should be raised to their greater average. Let's be sensible and talk like grown-up people.

You know and we know conditions govern rates. If a city is big, if there are many consumers along each mile of main, if the gas consumption is large in the area served, one plant with the same operating expenses as another located elsewhere under less favorable conditions can sell gas at a lower rate. On the other hand, if the gas consumption figures are the same in two cities, the one closer to coal mines and oil fields and pipe foundries has a distinct advantage and can sell gas more cheaply than the other.

Atlanta covers a large area in proportion to her total population. Among 33 cities that have a lower initial gas rate, Atlanta's number of consumers per mile of gas main is smaller than that of all but five cities. Its consumption of gas per mile of main is smaller than that of all but six. The city has no natural advantages helpful in gas-making. It is comparatively remote from coal mines, oil fields, pipe foundries. It is an inland city, without water freight rates.

Birmingham is the only city in the southeast whose gas rate is lower than Atlanta's. The cost of production and that of distribution are much less there than here. Birmingham has coal and pipe foundries at hand, oil nearer than Atlanta has and at cheaper freight rates.

Yet Birmingham's gas rate is 95 cents—only five cents lower than Atlanta's.

Baltimore's rate of 80 cents has been cited as proof that Atlanta's should be cut. Baltimore is a bigger city, a coast city, nearer coal and oil fields than Atlanta, has its own pipe foundries, and has 163 gas consumers per mile of main. Atlanta has 105. Its volume of business is more than four times that of Atlanta.

Take another instance you've been given. Detroit's rate of 85 cents (not 75 cents, as stated) is cited as reason for reduction here. Detroit's volume of gas business is six times ours. It has 166 consumers per mile of main. Its gas is mainly by-product gas from the big coke ovens there.

What's a reasonable rate of return? Public service commissions adjust their definitions to circumstances. It seems to range from 8 to 10 per cent on physical value plus working capital. The Georgia commission has declined to consider, in its basis for reasonable return, the franchise value of gas companies, though all of us pay taxes on that value. In our case it is assessed by Comptroller Wright at $700,000, which is 60 per cent of $1,166,666; and we pay taxes on it. But disregard it. What's left?

Our physical property is assessed in the annual return on file in the Comptroller's office at $1,900,000. The assessment in all cases is supposed to be 60 per cent of actual value. Therefore the actual value of our property would be, by the Comptroller's authority, $3,166,666. Two nationally known engineering firms assessed it, one at $3,174,664, the other at $3,220,454. The average of all three is $3,187,261. Take that. It excludes franchise value, mind you.

Add working capital—$161,000 at the time of appraisal.

This gives the total, $3,348,261. On that we are entitled to a fair and reasonable return after deduction for depreciation. Aren't we?

Our gross earnings in 1913 (the latest annual total available) were $853,102. Deduct our operating expenses ($435,169) and our taxes ($71,165) and 3 per cent depreciation ($95,618), and you have our net earnings left—$251,149.

That is 7.51 per cent of the total valuation, $3,348,261.

It is the revenue from gas rates at $1 for the first 10,000 cubic feet, 90 cents for each of the next 20,000 cubic feet, 80 cents for the next 20,000, and 70 cents per thousand above 50,000.

At those rates, our net profit was 7.51 per cent.

Can we afford to reduce them?

Can you afford to have them reduced?

2 ATLANTANS HURT WHEN COACH TURNS OVER NEAR ATHENS

Athens, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) From cause unknown a passenger and a freight coach of a mixed train coming to Athens from Union Point turned over today and the only four passengers aboard were hurt, none seriously, not a bone being broken, though there were many cuts and bruises.

The four injured are: A. R. Boswell, of Penfield, traveling man; H. H. Hunter, of Stephens, farmer; H. W. Riddle, of Atlanta, traveling man; A. T. Nash, of Atlanta, traveling man. All but Riddle left Athens for their homes tonight. He leaves tomorrow.

One man had his head out the window when the car overturned and narrowly missed having it mashed off against the earth as the coach was dragged on its side.

Autos and a physician made Winterville, seven miles away, in seventeen minutes, met the train there and brought the injured on to Athens.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE WITHOUT SINGLE WORD

Waycross, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—A marriage ceremony was performed in Waycross today without a single word being spoken by either of the contracting parties or the Methodist minister officiating, Rev. J. C. Flanders.

Miss Sallie Maybelle Davis, of Offerman, and James Thomas Brockman, of Atlanta, both deaf and dumb, met here today by agreement to marry and, failing to find a preacher able to converse with them by sign language, had to read their own marriage ceremony. Nods by them answered questions they read and the preacher concluded with a nod that signified they were man and wife.

MISS SADIE AMERICAN QUITS JEWISH WOMEN

New York, December 3.—Miss Sadie American, one of the principal founders and for almost twenty years executive secretary of the National Council of Jewish Women, severed all connections with the organization at the convention here today. The action was taken at an executive session and, it is said, caused great surprise.

Miss American made her announcement just before the convention began work on revising the constitution, one of the main objects of which was to consider curtailing powers of the executive secretary.

A statement given out as coming from Miss American says that the action was taken because "the conduct and acts of several of its (the organization's) officers make service with them inconsistent with dignity and self-respect."

The executive session was prolonged by acrimonious debate, delegates stated, adjourning late in the afternoon. It was stated that a press committee might be named tomorrow to make public the action taken as to the proposed amending of the constitution.

Miss Sadie American was the principal speaker at the night session, although she was credited with saying that she would not again appear before the convention. She spoke of the immigrant aid department of the council, which she said was in reality conducted by the New York section. Miss American declared that the problem of aiding immigrants was a large one in New York, as 1,000,000 of the 12,000,000 Jews of the world resided there.

Culinary Art Is Mrs. Chase's Theme at Taft Hall Next Week

Mrs. Florence Austin Chase, of Chicago, expert demonstrator and foremost lecturer on home economics who comes here Monday to conduct an up-to-date cooking school under the auspices of The Constitution, is a typically modern woman. That is to say, she is pro-gressive, without being ag-gressive. She is too mentally alert not to keep abreast if not ahead of the times, and too much imbued with the opportunities and dignity of her work to be in any measure self-assertive. Her work is for all women and her effort is to take a message to all parts of the country, into every modern section and community.

Mrs. Chase is as truly in love with her "part" as a great actress who has been entrusted with a big role. She believes with all her heart in the character of the work she essays and is ambitious to interpret her message to the largest audiences of women throughout the country.

It is Mrs. Chase's mission to lead women out of the slough of domestic despond, into the radiant light of domestic ease, peace and happiness. She believes ardently that woman's place is in the home, and she is prepared to help women realize their greatest usefulness in the home.

Ignorance of the laws of domestic science, the rightful heritages of culinary art, is responsible for not only the indifference, but a positive distaste many women feel for any work connected with the kitchen. Because of this ignorance domestic service has never risen to its rightful place in the home or in society. But a new day is dawning.

A thorough campaign against culinary neglect and ignorance is being waged throughout the civilized world today. Among the best known and most successful of these campaigners is Mrs. Florence Austin Chase, who The Constitution has been fortunate enough to secure to conduct the work here. Wherever she has lectured, she has not only made converts to the shrine of domestic art, but won hundreds of warm personal friends. She is a genuine benefit to a community. Her audiences are composed of the elite of the city and she numbers among her hearers the middle class and the poor alike. In many cities where Mrs. Chase lectures headquarters have to be moved once, sometimes twice, in order to accommodate the increasingly large number of women in attendance.

If there are women in the city who are at first indifferent to the advantages to be gained by attending a Chase cooking school, they do not long remain so. The enthusiasm spreads over the city like a bright cloud. Word goes out of the personal charm of the lecturer, the excellence of her methods, and other benefits to be gained, and thus the masses are soon flocking to the lecture hall, with standing room often at a premium.

It is not women alone who make up the audiences. Men are attracted by the presence on the streets of bands of women eagerly pushing in a common direction, armed with pencil and pad. They follow at a safe distance to the hall, where they cannot resist the temptation to enter. They invariably remain to wonder and admire.

These lectures and demonstrations are to be free. Every woman in the city and vicinity is welcome to enjoy the advantages to be offered. An hour has been arranged suited to the convenience of the majority.

division consisting mainly of the mayor and council and the Ad Men, prominent among the last named, St. Elmo Massengale, president, who devoted weeks of his time to make the Hog-and-Hominy carnival the splendid success it proved to be.

Beautiful Floats.

Now comes the real snow. Hardly in the history of Atlanta has there ever been a procession with more numerous and more beautiful floats than those which completed this procession. Each tried to outdo the other, and one could almost say they all succeeded.

Each of the big department stores—M. Rich & Bros. company, J. M. High company, J. P. Allen, Keely company, Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose and Davison-Paxon-Stokes, all of these had artistically decorated floats in the parade. The John Deere Plow company and other machinery houses had ponderous wheeled exhibits. All sorts of business houses took part in the parade. Besides these there were numbers of floats setting forth the agricultural interests of the state.

One of the most attractive floats was that of "The Master Key," by John Fleming Wilson, the new mammoth serial moving picture which will be shown at the Savoy and the Alpha theaters. The story will be carried serially in The Constitution, beginning next Sunday.

The W. E. Carter Electrical company float was an ingenuous arrangement. It was an auto truck outfitted with electric lamps and apparatus. The driver steered his machine along the trolley tracks, while a man upon the top connected a pole with the trolley wire, thus getting the current with which to operate the lamps and electrical devices.

Yes, it was some parade and some rain, and you'll just have to give the Ad Men credit!

No Moving Pictures.

It's too bad that the Hog and Hominy parade could not be preserved in moving pictures so that the rest of the country could have seen what a real parade looks like. It would have been so but for the fact that it had to rain. E. B. Steene, representing Pathe Weekly, was in Atlanta with his machine to "shoot" the procession, but the bad weather made it impossible for him to take a single picture.

IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN COUNTRY SCHOOLS

Washington, December 3.—Summarizing the results of its inquiry to determine what has been done in rural public schools toward infusing in both parents and pupils the "stay-on-the-farm" spirit, the federal bureau of education today announced that it reveals improvement everywhere in the schools for country children. Data for the investigation was furnished by 3,500 superintendents throughout the country who supervise rural schools. "There is a feeling," says the bureau, "that the country child will be best educated for whatever life he may lead, whether in the city or country, if taught in terms of country life. The movement towards this is nation-wide."

PAWNBROKER ARRESTED FOR STEALING $86,000

Boston, December 3.—William Cobb, who resigned today from the presidency of the Collateral Loan company, known as the largest pawn shop in the country, was arrested tonight accused of stealing from the funds. Thefts of $86,000 are charged against Cobb. The actual losses of the company, however, are greater. Accountants have discovered alleged larcencies of $28,000 additional, regarded as distinct from those charged against Cobb.

CLUB WOMEN ARE BUSY DISPOSING OF STAMPS

They Hope to Dispose of 1,500,000 Before the Campaign Is Over.

Club women of Atlanta are busy disposing of the Red Cross Christmas seals for the benefit of the anti-tuberculosis campaign being waged in this state. It is planned to distribute 1,500,000 of the stamps in Atlanta between now and Christmas. Every club has received its apportionment of the stamps and its members are busy among their friends in a general selling campaign.

General Manager Simms, who is in charge of the Red Cross stamp crusade in Atlanta, declared Thursday that he and his co-workers are much gratified with the manner in which the stamps have been selling. He is planning to begin an active street campaign on December 10, when he will have as his aides many of the most prominent society girls in Atlanta, as well as school children, office women and men and women in all lines of business.

The stamps sell at one cent each and are designed to be affixed to packages and mail matter of all sort sent out by firms and individuals during the Christmas season. The proceeds of the sale go to the relief of the poor and to the general campaign under way to prevent the spread of the dreaded disease in Atlanta.

"Every cent of the money raised by the stamps," said Simms, "will be turned over to the Anti-Tuberculosis society for Atlanta work. This organization so far this year has aided more than 1,600 families in which tuberculosis was detected. There are altogether about 3,000 cases of the disease in Atlanta. Every 1,000 stamps sold means a life saved, and we urge the public generally to aid in this humanitarian work."

Headquarters for the sale of stamps to firms and individuals have been opened in the ground floor of the Gould building under the direction of Miss H. E. Clarke.

Socialist Candidate For the Mayoralty Gets Only 19 Votes

"What happened to the socialists?" was the question politicians around the city hall asked each other Thursday morning after the city executive committee had consolidated the returns of Wednesday's city election and found that Samuel Kreigberg, socialist candidate, had received only 19 votes in his contest for mayor, while Mayor James G. Woodward received 1,184.

The total vote cast in all wards reached the grand total of 1,218. There were only 58 scratches. The total registration was more than 15,000, showing that less than 10 per cent of the voters went to the polls.

The following resolutions were framed by H. S. Featherston, chairman, and W. F. Crusselle, secretary, of the board of election managers, to be presented to the general council for consideration:

Be it resolved by the board of election managers of the city of Atlanta that the wards of the city in which more than one polling place may be established should be divided by some well-known boundary and the registration list for each ward should be separated by the registrar into lists covering the territory from which the precincts receive voters, so that the line of demarcation between two or more precincts in a ward shall be as well known as the ward lines themselves.

This action is taken to avoid the necessity of the meeting of managers of different ward precincts before and after the count of votes in an endeavor to ascertain if any one has voted more than once in the election. When the entire registration of a ward has been furnished to both sets of managers in the ward precincts, there is possibility of much fraud being perpetrated, if the voters should care to attempt it. This action would, in effect, make as many separations of the registration list of the city, as there are wards and voting precincts.

The question is respectfully urged upon the council for definite action.

H. S. FEATHERSTON, Chairman.
W. F. CRUSSELLE, Secretary.

SUBPOENAES ISSUED FOR TWENTY LAWYERS

Subpoenaes have been issued for twenty of the forty-eight lawyers named in the recent communication of Attorney Samuel C. Crane relative to the grand jury's investigation into the alleged gang of systematic bond swindlers that has already resulted in a number of indictments.

Crane insists that a circle of lawyers in Atlanta are fostering the bond swindlers, and, to this end, has furnished Solicitor Dorsey with a list of attorneys who, he says, are able to throw light upon the scandal. He held a conference with the solicitor Thursday morning, at which time he furnished Dorsey with names of the lawyers subpoenaed.

The grand jury will go into session next Tuesday and will sink what is predicted to be the deepest probe yet into the bond troubles.

Theatergoers Are Interested In Return of Emma Bunting

All Atlanta theater-goers are interested in the coming two weeks' engagement of Little Emma Bunting at the Lyric. The event is scheduled to start on Monday next, and will continue until Saturday week. The first week of the visit of the popular star will be devoted to the presentation of "What Happened to Mary," the old-fashioned love story that was so successfully run as a serial in one of the popular magazines for women, and that has been a great drawing card in the motion picture theaters. Miss Bunting has played the title role with wonderful success. The second week will bring the star to the front in her own play, "Tess of the Storm Country." It will be recalled that the play was originally produced here in Atlanta at the Lyric under the personal direction of Rupert Hughes, who wrote the offering for Miss Bunting.

The box office has been open since Monday, and it is surprising that such a great number of reservations have been made. In addition, there have been blocks of seats sold for all of the performances, indicating that Miss Bunting's two weeks' visit will be popular.

Emma Bunting, in a previous engagement, eclipsed the business of every other star that has been brought here for a continued engagement. The company surrounding the star is better than any she has ever had. George Whitaker is the leading man. Under the personal supervision of E. A. Schiller, it is promised that the stage mountings will be correct and elaborate.

EMMA BUNTING.

U. C. T's. Play at the Atlanta Will Please Crowd Saturday

With a final rehearsal at the Atlanta theater tonight, the local company which is to present "A Day at the Union Station," will be prepared to give Atlantans more real run than it has been their pleasure to enjoy for some time—certainly more than any local entertainment has ever furnished.

To play is to be presented Saturday matinee and night at the Atlanta theater. The advance sale of seats has been quite heavy, and a record crowd for a local company is expected. Some few good seats yet remain, and the friends of the United Commercial Travelers, who are sponsors for the play, as well as all others who enjoy a play with some screamingly funny lines and situations and some good "take offs" on local situations, would do well to get their seats reserved as early as possible.

Mrs. Charles A. Sheldon, Sr., is directing the play. The leading roles are in the hands of some of the best talent in the city, a few members of the U. C. T.'s starring in the cast, and in addition about twenty children are drilled for the Gypsy scene, a bevy of high school girls are there with their laughter and fun, and a big bunch of Tech school boys, including the Glee club, take a part.

The play has been seen in Atlanta before, but Mrs. Sheldon has injected into it many new situations and characters, who pass in and out of the big railroad station, and have all kinds of ridiculous and funny things happen to them. It will be full two hours of good, clean fun, well worth the price of admission, to say nothing of the worthy cause of charity for which the entertainment is being given. In addition to helping swell the funds to care for the orphans of this city, about three hundred of these little tots from various charitable institutions will be present at the Saturday matinee to see the play.

If you haven't got your ticket yet, do so at once—and go and enjoy yourself, and at the same time help the travelers to help the orphans.

TWO MEN SUFFOCATED WHEN HOTEL IS BURNED

Paris, Tenn., December 3.—Two men were suffocated to death and four others slightly injured here today in a fire that destroyed a restaurant and hotel on the east side of the public square. The dead are William Doyle, aged 30, and Earl Wright, 29, both of Centralia, Ill. They were horse traders and had been in the city several days.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have started in the restaurant, which had been closed for the night. The two victims were caught in their room on the second floor of the hotel and met death before help could reach them.

Injuries sustained by the others were received when they jumped from windows on the second floor to the street. The property loss was slight.

DANIELS TAKES ISSUE WITH SENATOR LODGE

Washington, December 3.—Secretary Daniels today took sharp issue with Senator Lodge over the latter's reported statement to the effect that no fleet maneuvers have been held for two years and no divisional maneuvers for one year.

"Since I have been in the navy department," said Mr. Daniels, "I have attended two fleet maneuvers and the fleet is now concluding maneuvers again at Hampton Roads. As to divisional maneuvers they have been held from time to time. Of course the presence of so many of the warships in Vera Cruz interrupted the scheduled programs somewhat but the Vera Cruz expedition itself was of inestimable value in showing the preparedness of the fleet and its ability to get under way within thirty-six hours of the issuance of the order to Admiral Badger."

NELSON PIANO CONCERN IN BANKRUPT COURT

Chicago, December 3.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy, filed in the federal court by the H. P. Nelson Piano company, a $1,000,000 corporation, was withdrawn on the order of Judge K. M. Landis because it was not accompanied by properly drawn schedules.

It was announced that the schedules would be made up and the petition again presented. The liabilities of the company, according to the statement in court of R. A. Crandall, chairman of a creditors' committee, are approximately $1,500,000, while the assets were given as $2,400,000. Judge Landis was told that the difficulties of the company arose largely from the fact that the bulk of its business is done in southern towns where the war's effect on cotton sales has been most marked.

Filing of the petition was decided on after the United States Glue company, of Milwaukee, had obtained a judgment of $16,000 against the Nelson company.

Marines From Vera Cruz.

Philadelphia, Pa., December 3.—Three hundred and fifty marine corps officers and men reached Philadelphia today on the transport San Marcos, which sailed from Vera Cruz the day the United States turned over that city to the Mexicans. The transports Denver and City of Memphis, which were fog-bound with the San Marcos at the Delaware capes, will dock tomorrow. The advance guard of the returning force received a warm welcome.

First Argentine Ambassador.

Washington, December 3.—Romulo S. Noan, for three years minister to the United States from Argentina, today presented his credentials to President Wilson as the first ambassador from his country.

FIFTH WARDERS WILL INDORSE SCHOOL BONDS

Improvement Club Appoints Committee to Confer with Council's Committee.

Brief discussion of the campaign being waged in the interest of a bond issue for schools, and the movement for a reduction of Atlanta's gas rate, at the meeting of the Fifth Ward Improvement club last night indicated that a majority of the members present indorse both.

The club definitely decided that it wants to know more about the gas rate situation in Atlanta, and will make the subject the special order of the meeting which will be held on the third Thursday in this month.

Positive indorsement of a bond issue will result at the next meeting, if the committee which was appointed Thursday night succeeded in interesting the bond issue committee in some of the needs of the Fifth ward in the way of schools. The committee will confer with council's committee.

The committee is composed of T. N. Kidd, J. E. Bowden, A. D. Williams and Councilmen Jesse B. Lee and John D. Sisson and Alderman James W. Maddox.

Owing to the absence of members of the club's school committee, nothing was done in the matter of returning fifteen pupils from tne Ashby to the English Avenue school.

A delegation will appear before the police commission next Tuesday night and will urge that the ward be given more police protection.

County Commissioner Oscar Mills appeared at the meeting of the club and announced that he desired to become actively identified with its work. Some of the improvements planned for next year are: Grade and sidewalks on Pelham street; fill at Paynes avenue; fill and grade Rice street to Howell station; grade Niles avenue from Ashby to Rice; underpass on Ponders avenue; grade North avenue to Maddox park.

President J. E. Bowden presided at the meeting.

AT THE THEATERS

"High Jinks."

(At the Atlanta.)

On Monday and Tuesday, with a Tuesday matinee, Arthur Hammerstein will present "High Jinks" at the Atlanta. This is really and truly a very fine musical show and is certain to please the Atlanta public. Yesterday an Atlantan who saw the show at Savannah bought six seats for friends and said: "You may tell everybody in Atlanta that this is a great show. Twelve of us saw it in Savannah the other night and I have never enjoyed anything more. It is a crackerjack." On Tuesday a matinee will be given. The company includes many people who are well known and who have unqualified ability. Seats are now selling for the engagement and indications are a big crowd will be present.

Keith Vaudville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Joe Jackson, this week's laugh winner at the Forsyth, has done more to draw capacity-testing gatherings than ever in the life of the theater. That Joe Jackson is the funniest man that ever appeared before any local audience is a fact that will not be argued. "A Seminary Scandal," with its pretty girls, tuneful music and wholesome comedy, is a first-rate act, and Collins and Hart in the last position on the bill furnish a good number that is a real box office winner. For next week the headliner will be vaudeville's greatest novelty, "Neptune's Garden of Living Statues," introducing the mystifying sensation, "The Enchanted Pool." There are twenty divers, dancers and pantomime artists in this act. It will exhibit the grandest stage setting that has been seen on the Forsyth stage, and the diving scene is totally unlike anything that has been offered here. There will be five other features on the bill.

"On Belgian Battlefields."

(At the Grand.

"On Belgian Battlefields," at the Grand theater this week, continues to attract general attention. The attendance so far this week has exceeded 16,000 persons. Edwin F. Weigle, staff photographer of The Chicago Tribune, took the pictures in Belgium under direction of the Belgian government. He managed to picture three actual battles and get a stirring review of conditions and scenes surrounding the Belgian refugees in their flight to safety. With his camera he followed the soldiers into the trenches, on the march and lined up for battle and experts declare the pictures he got have never been equalled in this country. By arrangement with the Belgian government, one-half the proceeds of he film in this counry goes to the Red Cross Society of Belgium.

BURNS PROVE FATAL TO NASHVILLE BABY

Nashville, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Nannie Register, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Register, died late last night. A UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL.

In Atlanta's educational crisis, in which her inadequate high schools play so conspicuous a role, there could be no more helpful counsellor than Dr. Joseph S. Stewart, high school inspector for Georgia, and a man who has made a study of high schools from the national and sectional standpoints and from every practical angle.

The sum total of Dr. Stewart's reasoning, which is set forth in a communication today, is precisely the reiterated contention of The Constitution. That is, that—

We should adopt a plan approximating the suggestion originally advanced by Mayor Woodward and looking, not to four separate and isolated high schools, but to a university high school, one high school unit, located on an easily accessible site, separating sexes, if that is desired, but combining in its plant all the high school facilities to which a boy or girl can aspire.

Dr. Stewart supports his plan, which is interchangeable with the Woodward plan, by citing cities in every part of the country, north, east, south and west, cities of metropolitan and cities of provincial proportions. Incidentally, he indicates that Atlanta's high school showing is miserable as contrasted with smaller cities and less rich cities in Georgia.

There is everything to recommend the university high school plan. To segregate the Boys' Tech and Boys' High and Girls' English Commercial and Girls' High on four separate sites, with four separate heating plants, and four distinct janitor operation and other functions, is to practice endless waste and extravagance. These four institutions can be centralized, heated with one plant, served by one corps of servants, and, above all, every boy and girl given access to any educational advantage conceivable. Under the old and present plan, sending a boy to the Boys' Tech is equivalent to notifying him that he is barred from the advantages of the Boys' High. Sending a girl to the English Commercial is equivalent to notifying her that she may not qualify in the Girls' High or enjoy any one of its many advantages.

As Dr. Stewart insists, this arrangement leads to class distinctions and inequalities totally opposed to our American ideals. It also is extravagant and ineffectual. The board of education and the people of Atlanta could do no better than analyze carefully the expert advice of Dr. Stewart.

WHO RESPECT THEMSELVES.

The Constitution reproduces today from The Omaha (Neb.) Bee a cordial commendation of our recent editorial, "Take the Begging Signs Off the Nation's Doors." The clipping is self-explanatory. In tenor and vigor it is one of many. From the geographical standpoint few Constitution editorials in recent years have struck a chord more representative or responsive.

The Constitution returns to this subject at intervals, for the reason that it believes it is just as well the south digested thoroughly the lesson of an unfortunate contretemps.

That lesson, written in huge letters, is that the world always respects the man, under any condition, who has confidence in himself.

It has been worth while to have been through the inheritance of a mistake, to catch that enduring moral.

PROPHECY FULFILLED.

The Georgia Corn Show at the state capitol, which marks high tide in the battle to inculcate scientific agriculture by reaching the youth of the state, recalls in pertinent coincidence a prophetic editorial which appeared in The Constitution in February of 1906, nearly nine years ago.

At that time the corn and cotton club work was just getting on its feet. Skepticism as to its practicability was more or less pronounced. From the start The Constitution went bull on the movement. It reviewed the inception and its motives and the sources co-operating, and ventured prophecy as follows:

> The Constitution is not only in complete sympathy with methods of this practical nature, but is confident that the innovation will prove a most valuable addition to the curriculum of the county schools, and that the liberal inducements offered, no less than the ease of the conditions, will stimulate the industry and ambition of a multiplying army of the boys and girls of Georgia. Teaching through object lessons has an undoubted advantage over the purely didactic methods. When, as in the present instance, it makes every energetic scholar in the state an earnest, painstaking student of scientific agriculture, thus awakening him to possibilities of his native state, the project is given a direct and inspirational worth which can hardly be overestimated.
> It is our firm conviction that should the plan prove as successful as its present promise, later years will establish the corn and cotton competition inaugurated during the year 1906 as one of the most effective and commonsense developers of the cultural assets of Georgia.

That prophecy has been fulfilled amply. The corn clubs have become one of the foremost cultural assets of the state. Year by year the boys engaged in healthful competition have increased their yields. Year by year the movement has spread out and claimed more counties. Year by year the counties it entered have felt the invigorating effects of diversification, extending to the veteran farmers themselves.

And now, in this good year, 1914, The Constitution registers another prediction. It is to the effect that in a very few years these same corn clubs, added to the momentum of the girls' canning clubs and the boys' pig clubs, will redeem this state from the tyranny of all-cotton and give it broad, income-producing industries worthy its encyclopedic resources. The prediction is a safe one. It is thoroughly justified by the phenomenal progress of the past.

A TRAGEDY AT OUR GATES.

Is the sad old world of our day too surfeited with far-off tragedy on a colossal scale to catch the true sharpness and poignancy of a grim and pitiful little tragedy at our very gates? Look on at the tragedy of W. E. Ormond—Ormond the paralytic, and his family of eight—his family of a wife and eight children left to face the wolf because Ormond, though a paralytic, was also a hero. Then see if in this little drama, staged right here in Atlanta, you do not find the elements of pathos, of misery and of suffering keenly silhouetted just as you find them in ravished and desolated Europe, that draws your sympathy and appeals to your substance.

He must have been a brave man, and a man worth while, that same Ormond. To a man with normal faculties, the fight to sustain a wife and eight children is not a task wreathed with cheerfulness nor lined with ease. But when that man is smitten with paralysis—when hands and feet bend under him as he walks and works, what then? There are plenty of gallant fellows fighting over there along the German border and in Poland. Not one could be more gallant nor longer-suffering than was Ormond. In battle one is stricken with a bullet, dies or is invalided, and there is the end to it. And there is always the riotous contagion of combat around one to inspire courage and lash the flagging spirits. Ormond had no such stimulus. He just—fought. Just fought, every day and all day, with his paralyzed limbs, with his mind bearing fearfully on the future, but thinking ever of that wife, those eight children to whom his first obligations were due, for whom he must keep on fighting as long as God kept life in his stricken body.

And then his little world crumbled about him. Conditions were desperate in the humble home. Only one of the eight children, a boy, could work, and his earning capacity was not pretentious. There was a cripple daughter, too, and they were ambitious that a surgeon should try his art on her. There must be more money, more food, more clothing. The mother and the youngest girl went out and secured work. They were returning home with their pitiful earnings. A negro footpad attacked them. You might have abandoned the money and saved yourself. But even a pittance means much when one is poor. So the woman and the child fought. The father, nearby, heard the sound of their screams. He limped to the rescue. The negro had fled with their little fortunes. The father pursued. The upshot was that he fell with three bullets from the negro's pistol in his body.

Ormond still did not stop fighting. The habit of contest against hopeless odds was strong in the man. At the hospital he battled for two days against what the doctors knew was certain death. Ormond did not recognize their judgment. He only recognized the need in the little home he had fallen defending.

Ormond is dead. The fight of the paralytic himself is ended. But the fight in the home he left has just begun. There is the widow. There are the eight children. There is the cripple girl. What say the people of Atlanta? Is not this suffering and this tragedy as acidly etched as the suffering and the tragedy in the smouldering Belgium homes? We give to them, as we should, gladly. What about the tragedy at our gates, the tragedy of Ormond and his wife and children, the heroism of Ormond and his long battle, unblazoned and unheralded?

Shall not Atlanta, in this approaching Christmastide, place the family beyond need? Shall not the great-hearted people of our city complete the task Ormond had carved out for himself? It should not fail, just because he has fallen in the trenches.

The Atlanta Federation of Trades, with prompt and characteristic generosity, has initiated a movement for the adequate relief of the family. Others have subscribed to the fund. Who will be next? Who will give to lighten this tragedy, which was all that Ormond, Ormond the paralytic, as gallant a man as ever roamed homeless through Belgium or faced death along the Aisne, could bequeath to his family?

A Story of "The Honey Boy."

"Listen, daughter: Your mother tells me that the honey boy who has been festooning the landscape hereabouts for the past month has retreated to a position previously selected. Well, don't cry. There's no reason, and besides it washes off the powder. Honey boy spent about four bits a week on you. Here's a dollar a week to take its place. Every time he called he cleaned out the refrigerator. Your mother will see that your brothers do this in the future. He kept you up late nights. Your baby sister is teething and she kept me up late, but I'll resign in your favor so it won't seem strange for you to go to bed early. He took possession of the most comfortable rocker in the living room. When you look at that rocker in the future it will not bring a pang to see it empty, for it will be full of little old George B. The Holland Letter

There must be foundation for the reports which have been for some days in circulation in the financial district intimating that Russia is seeking to establish in some way a large credit in the United States which may be utilized in paying for the commodities which the Russian government expects to buy here. None of the reports is detailed enough to identify its source, but all of them agree in the statement that representatives of Russia or representations made by Russia involve a plan for creating in this country perhaps a larger credit than any foreign government has ever established in the United States. One of the reports contains an intimation that Russia may establish in some way a branch bank, although that is a rather crude way of defining the purpose of that nation. Some sort of banking arrangement which will make it possible to perfect a line of credits in the United States at the time of her war with Russia is in contemplation.

Russia has already bought heavily in the United States, and, the understanding is, has paid cash for these purchases. There are intimations that Russia would be willing to pay even a good bonus if in that way speedy construction of certain war materials or implements which may be used in Russia for the manufacture of such materials can be guaranteed.

Whatever the other effects of the war may be, so far as Germany is concerned, it seems inevitable that for some years after peace is declared Russia will decline to purchase German commodities, even assuming that Germany may regain her industries so that she will be able soon after the war to sell her surplus commodities in other markets.

Some of the statistics which have been brought to this city which set forth the foreign trade of Germany show that until war began Russia was her chief customer. It may be, therefore, that what Germany loses the United States may permanently gain. However, this is a remote consideration. The immediate matter of interest is the earnest disposition of Russia to buy war materials and equipment of all kinds, machinery and tools such as are used for manufacturing implements of war and food which is so packed as to make it available for feeding armies.

There seems to be a strong impression that Russia will gain such banking and financing facilities in the United States as will make it possible for her easily to continue her heavy purchases here.

When Peace Comes.

Some intimations which have reached New York from Russia suggest that the great change which has characterized her military system, her tactics, strategy and the fighting qualities of her soldiers, is not the only change which has occurred in Russia since the close of the war with Japan. John Hays Hammond, when on a visit to Russia some years ago of a professional nature, speedily observed that there had been an awakening in Russia which pointed to industrial activity upon a large scale, the construction of great public works and new railway systems, and especially the development of internal resources, of which Russia has an abundance of all kinds.

A year or two ago, George W. Perkins, in private conversation, spoke with enthusiasm of what he called "awakened Russia" and of the opportunities which prevail in the empire for manufacture and agriculture upon an inconceivably great scale. Mr. Perkins had visited Russia and was brought in personal touch with those who are the leaders in this new movement.

The late George Westinghouse was accustomed for several years before his death to speak of the great development of the electric industry and transportation in Russia, saying that he believed within the course of ten or fifteen years the use of electric energy would be universal in Russia, and would be followed by some astounding industrial and agricultural results. Mr. Westinghouse spoke as one having authority, for he had been in close business touch with electrical development in Russia.

American capital is heavily represented in the electric industry in Russia, as also is the manufacture of agricultural implements. Only a few months before the war began, John Hays Hammond spoke informally to a group of friends of the wonderful opportunities which were awaiting American capital in Russia, saying, also, that this capital was not confined to money, but to American inventive genius, directing skill and industrial and agricultural leadership.

Turned to America.

He called attention to the fact that it was to the United States that the czar of Russia turned when he sought an engineer competent to construct an air-line railroad which would connect St. Petersburg with Moscow. He made choice of Captain Whistler, who had already gained distinction for his engineering services when the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was under construction, and also for his remarkable achievement as an engineer in making it possible to complete the railroad which gave Boston communication with the west, and which was called the Boston and Albany.

Russia has always looked favorably upon American energy, skill and inventive capacity, and will after the war is ended be disposed to invite American capital, and not only money, but ability in aiding her to upbuild her empire.

There is undoubtedly a great opportunity for American manufacturers, especially of apparatus which is used in agriculture, in Russia after the close of the war. What the disposition of Russia is toward the United States is illustrated by the fact that the government of Russia has already been asked by business leaders there to establish a new and low duty upon American commodities imported by Russia, who have gone so far as to recommend that the duty on American machinery be for some years suspended.

These are some of the facts upon which is based the belief that Russia is now seriously and vigorously undertaking to establish in the United States facilities upon a very large scale whereby sufficient credits in favor of the former may be secured to enable her to make all the purchases she wants to in the latter.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON.

A SPINNER OF YARNS.

My heart is sore when Binks, the bore, sits down beside my table, and hems and haws, and wags his jaws, and starts to tell a fable. His yarns are old and blue with mould—old Father Noah span them, till Ham and Shem got tired of them, and told their dad to can them. Old Banks comes in, with sickly grin, when I have tasks unending, and spiels and yawps and never stops till night's shades are descending. No sort of hint will make him sprint, or quit his dreary drooling; and when I say, "Oh, chee, go 'way," he thinks I'm only fooling. The laws correct—they don't protect the busy, hustling fellers, who have to stand, all o'er the land, this plague of story-tellers. If one should balk, and kick and knock, in righteous ire and dudgeon, he'll gain repute as surly brute, as cranky, sour curmudgeon. It is a crime to waste the time of busy friends and neighbors, to seek the tents of toiling gents and interrupt their labors. When you begin a yarn to spin, you'll see the folks snort and sniffle; the newest tale is old and stale, and all your yarns are piffle.

How Negro Can Help Curtail Cotton Crop

Editor Constitution: Some weeks ago, through our southern papers, I made a suggestion that each negro family raise one or more additional pigs this year in order to help bring about more prosperity in the south. I have been surprised to note how well the suggestion has been received, and how many are following it; one minister in Uniontown, Ala., went so far as to organize a Pig club in his church.

Now, I want to make one other suggestion, that, in my opinion, is of still greater and more practical importance. For months the great cry has been all through the south to stop growing cotton or reduce the acreage.

Chambers of commerce, business leagues, state legislatures, and other bodies have passed resolutions without number urging that we in the south stop growing so much cotton. To stop growing cotton is very easy; in fact, it is always easy to stop work, but merely to stop growing cotton is a mere negative proposition and will not, I fear, leave the south much better off than it is at present. If we destroy or cripple a great industry, we should be very sure to have one, or a number, equally good to put in its place. In this connection it should be kept in mind, as a matter of great importance, that if the labor once leaves the farm by reason of changing crops, it will be very difficult to get the labor to return to the farm in after years.

The great cry is to grow food crops. That is well, but one must keep in mind that the great masses of negroes who have actually grown the most of the cotton in the south for years, and who live upon the most valuable land in the south, do not hear of the resolutions that are passed by these various bodies. These people have been trained to grow nothing but cotton and do not know how to grow anything else. In fact, in many cases, they have not been permitted and are not now permitted to grow anything else!

We must also bear in mind that the largest land owners seldom visit their plantations—some not more than once or twice a year, and hence can be of little service in teaching these negro tenants how to change all at once from a cotton-producing crop to a food-producing crop.

If permanent results are to be secured, the negro who actually cultivates the land must be reached and trained into growing a food-producing crop. How can this be done? My answer would be, by putting a negro farm demonstration agent into every county of the south where there is any considerable number of negro farmers. This negro demonstration agent should be a man of good common sense. He should be a man who knows the characteristics of the colored people, who knows how to reach them in and through their societies, their churches and their various organizations of one kind and another. He should be a man required to travel from one farm to another throughout the country training the negro farmer how to produce a food crop. Wherever these demonstration agents have already been at work in the south, they have done work which has been most helpful and commendable.

If this important work is to be done, no time should be lost in selecting these demonstration agents. The cost should not be very large. Either through county appropriations or from some part of the state funds appropriated for agricultural purposes, a portion of the money for the salary perhaps could be provided. Appropriations are also being made by the United States government to encourage and promote various kinds of agricultural work. Some part of this money, I feel sure, might be secured from the Smith-Lever fund or from the United States demonstration fund administered through Dr. Bradford Knapp. While I am not in position to suggest just where the money may be secured, I think that if an earnest effort is made, some portion of it can be secured from some of the funds or agencies here mentioned.

WINTER QUARTERS.

BY GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

The armies of Europe are now preparing for the tedious job of waiting for the spring campaigns.

War campaigns do not thrive in the winter. Either the ground is too soft to hold up the 45-ton firearms or it is too hard to allow graves to be dug in it with the necessary ease and haste. It is also hard to keep the attention of the soldiers on the enemy when he is suffering from frostbite, chilblains and influenza. For these reasons hostilities diminish as cold weather sets in and the soldiers settle down comfortably in winter quarters.

Winter quarters consist of tents, caves, tin houses, log huts, trenches with roofs over them, strawpiles hollowed out and, in fact, anything that will turn a north wind slightly aside. Living in army quarters during the winter is as big a feat as keeping house in a Nebraska corn crib in January. When an army has had to retreat a few times during the winter and has had to scramble up an extempore set of winter quaters, the enemy doesn't have to waste bullets. The cold weather does its work for it very effectively. Doing sentry duty half a mile from a stove during a February night on the Russian frontier is about as fatal as charging a machine gun. Many an angry corporal will try to awaken a motionless sentry this winter in order to shoot him, only to discover that the said sentry is not sleeping, but has been frozen stiff at his post of duty.

"It is also hard to keep the attention of the soldier on the enemy where he is suffering from frost-bite, chilblains and influenza."

However, commerce must thrive, and national jealousies and ambitions must be preserved.

The winter quarters did more damage in the American revolution than the British army, and during the famous season at Valley Forge, where the American patriots lived on parched corn and warmed themselves by kicking trees with their bare feet, the spark of American independence flickered down so low that one good charge of canister would have blown it out. However, the American republic was saved by another set of winter quarters. These were in Philadelphia, and were so comfortable that the British army could not tear itself away from them long enough to do a little winter campaigning.

Thus we should give all honor to Philadelphia. She is slow, but she saved the nation by keeping the British soldier warm.

Constitution Lauded For Protesting Idea Of Pauperized South

(From The Omaha (Neb.) Bee.)

In a ringing editorial, The Atlanta Constitution, always disposed to take the biggest view of the south's problems, calls on the south to "Take the Begging Sign From the Nation's Doors." It has reference to the cotton crisis. It says:

From the moment the European war demoralized the cotton market, a howl for help was started in the south and it did not take it long to assume the tone of a charity wail. No wonder the whole country believed that the south's and the nation's cotton was an applicant for charity.

The Constitution refers to the various devices of public appeal as a "campaign of well-meant, but humiliating, impulse," whose cost to the south "would be difficult to estimate." It goes on to show how southern business men and newspapers are paying the penalty of this humiliating impulse. Newspapers are losing outside advertising because the advertisers, naturally concluding that if the south is so nearly broke as these supplications indicate, then its people have no money to spend, hence it would be futile to advertise. Business of various kinds, says The Constitution, is suffering in other ways. And it adds that southern advertisers on the ground know that "the idea of the south being 'hanged, drawn and quartered' is grotesque. Hence they are advertising as usual." And thus it concludes:

Let the world know that we are standing on our own bottom and that we are going to get through this thing with flying colors.

The Constitution has rendered the south, as well as the north, a valuable service in this broad-gauged presentation. Anyone who has followed the great southern progress and development in recent years knows better than to think that even such a stupendous blow to the south's principal industry is as nearly fatal as some of its unwise representatives have made out.

Four Distinct High Schools Would Be Ineffectual, According to Expert

Editor Constitution: The city of Atlanta is facing a crisis in her High school development. She has outgrown her present buildings and present plans of development. I have visited no city in the United States with the population of Atlanta with such poor high school buildings. This is true from Richmond to Tacoma. The people should know this. Birmingham, Nashville, Richmond, Norfolk, Macon have new coeducational cosmopolitan high schools costing from $150,000 to $700,000. Louisville has a $250,000 Girls' high school and is planning a similar building for the boys. Savannah, Augusta, Columbus, Macon, Rome and Athens have better provided for their high school pupils than Atlanta is now doing. Richmond has a $650,000 John Marshall high school open from 9 o'clock in the morning to 10 o'clock at night, teaching about 1,500 in the daytime and enrolling 1,200 in the night classes. It is open to boys and girls and at night to all who need more instruction.

The tendency in the east, in the large cities, is to erect separate high schools for boys and girls, but offering in each everything that may be demanded in a high school. This is illustrated by the new million-dollar high schools for each sex recently built in Philadelphia and New York. In the west the tendency is the co-educational high school, combining all kinds of instruction under one roof. Both plans are found in the south. It is bad pedagogy and poor business to separate the girls by the studies they pursue. By all means continue the girls' high schools. Why should a girl be set apart simply because she chooses to study bookkeeping? The city is developing a class distinction that is contrary to American ideals. Often the pupil in the first year does not know what she needs. In the cosmopolitan school all subjects stand on an equal footing and no distinctions are made by the studies elected. The overhead charges are nearly doubled under the present plan. In the Washington Irving high school, New York, I saw 3,500 girls at once. They could study anything from French or painting to bread-making. So it should be in Atlanta.

The weight of argument is in favor of consolidating all the work for the boys. $300,000 in a cosmopolitan high school for boys would give better educational advantages at less cost and a far better plant than could be secured by two buildings for the same money. There are many arguments and the weight of practice in America for combining all in a great high school for all the people. There is the weight of long established custom in Atlanta, and good argument for building two high schools, one for boys and one for girls.

In any case do not build four and do not think of less than $600,000 outlay for the high schools, if Atlanta wishes a place in the forefront of southern cities.

There is nothing that can appeal to a man of moderate means so much as the opportunity granted by a great high school for his children. It equalizes opportunities.

Peavine Twice as Nutritious as Timothy

Editor Constitution: I note in a recent issue some remarkable statements of prominent Atlanta hay and grain merchants in reference to the value of peavine hay, the best qualities of such hay not bringing over $18 to $20 per ton, against $22 to $26 per ton for western timothy.

According to the table of digestible nutritives in "Henry's Feeds and Feeding," timothy hay contains only 2.8 per cent digestible protein, against 10.8 per cent for cowpea hay, and 4.3 per cent in even peavine straw. There is comparatively little difference between timothy hay and peavine hay in digestible carbohydrates and fats, timothy being a little superior in this respect, but, as is well known, it is the percentage of digestible protein which measures the real value of a food stuff. Protein is the most essential as well as the most costly and valuable constituent in the dietary of man or beast.

A good peavine hay should, according to intrinsic feeding value, bring not only as much, but more than twice as much in the market as timothy hay. It is a pity if careless and unscientific methods of curing and baling should prevent this.

It appears to the writer that here is an opportunity for some good business man, not only to make money for himself, but to benefit his country by going into the business of preparing a commercial feed stuff, using good peavine hay largely as a source of his protein. These commercial feed stuffs are sold on a guaranteed percentage of protein, fat and fiber, and the seller fixes his price in accordance with the percentage of valuable ingredients contained in the feed stuff.

COTTON COMMITTEE HEADED BY MADDOX

State Loan Boards to Handle $135,000,000 Fund Announced—These Committees Are to Select Local Committees.

Washington, December 3.—The last important step preliminary to the actual operation of the $135,000,000 cotton loan fund was taken today by the cotton loan committee when it completed the state committees in eleven of the southern states. These committees will select local committees at once in every cotton producing community. The cotton loan committee also announced tonight that a meeting of the chairmen of the state committees would be held here December 15 to discuss details of the loan plan. The committee for Florida was not given in tonight's statement and it was said a committee may later be named for Missouri, since the southeastern part of that state produces cotton.

Although the plans for putting the fund into the hands of cotton producers have gone steadily forward, it was indicated tonight that possibly a large part of the $100,000,000 contributed by northern banks might never be used. Officials here realize that some southern producers are not particularly enthusiastic over the plan in view of the interest to be paid on loans, and of the prices now quoted on cotton on the New York and Liverpool exchanges. At the same time it was said the plan is regarded as successful whether a dollar is borrowed under it or not.

The very fact that the cotton exchanges have reopened and that cotton is selling for fairly good prices officials declared was due to some extent at least to the completion of the loan fund.

The state loan committees announced tonight are composed of the following bankers:

COUNTRY BOYS STRONGER THAN LADS OF THE CITIES

Jacksonville, Fla., December 3.—Rural life produces students who are better fitted physically for their work than those born and reared in cities, according to an address delivered here today by Prof. Walter F. Wilcox, of Cornell university, before the vital statistics section of the annual convention of the American Public Health association.

An examination extending over three years of members of the freshman class at Cornell showed, Prof. Wilcox declared, that students from the country as a class were taller, heavier and had greater lung capacity and greater chest girth than students from the cities.

The greater health among negroes than among members of the white race was emphasized in an address by Dr. William F. Brunner, health officer of Savannah, Ga. He suggested a commission to inquire into the sociological and sanitary conditions surrounding the negro in his place of living.

Officers and the convention city for 1915 are expected to be selected at the final meeting of the association tomorrow. New York, Cincinnati, Baltimore and Rochester, N. Y., have invited the association's next meeting.

No session of the convention was held tonight. Other speakers today included Dr. Charles S. Slade and Prof. C. E. A. Winslow, both of New York.

Negro Who Is Charged With Killing Ormond Bound Over Thursday

Tom Ballard, arrested Saturday night shortly after W. E. Ormond was fatally shot in front of his residence, 53 Cooper street, was bound over by Judge George E. Johnson Thursday afternoon on the charges of murder, assault with intent to rob and shooting at another.

Ella Jones and Anna Broadnax, two negro women, were also bound over in connection with the killing of Mr. Ormond, Ella on the charges of accessory to the murder and to the attempt to rob and Anna on the charge of accessory to the murder after the fact.

A number of witnesses testified that Ballard and Ella Jones had been seen loafing near the Ormond residence shortly before Mrs. Ormond and Miss Willie Ormond were attacked and knocked down by a negro as they returned home from downtown.

Hardy Ormond testified that Ballard was the negro who shot at him and fatally shot his father.

Mrs. Ormond, between sobs, testified that Ballard looked very much like the negro who knocked her and her daughter down in front of their home. Ballard made no statement.

OSTEOPATHS OF ATLANTA DINE DR. J. W. ELLIOTT

That Atlanta needs and will sooner or later have a college for osteopaths and an osteopathic sanitarium, was the earnest expression at the banquet last night at the Winecoff hotel, given by the local osteopaths in honor of Dr. J. W. Elliott, of Cordele, Ga., president of the state association.

The matter was discussed briefly at the time, but enough was said to show that the members of the profession in Georgia do not expect to cease striving for these two institutions until they have succeeded in getting them. Those present were enthusiastically in favor of Atlanta as the site for the college and sanitarium, whenever the money is forthcoming.

After the banquet the party attended the Hog and Hominy ball.

Dr. Elliott is in the city conferring with the local osteopaths in regard to arrangements for the 1915 convention, which holds in Cordele. A prominent guest at that meeting will be Dr. Louisa Burns, secretary of the Chicago Research Institute.

There are today nearly a hundred osteopaths in the state, whereas a few years ago there were but two or three. Osteopathy is a new science, having come into existence only 25 years ago, but its progress has been wonderful. There are now seven osteopathic colleges in the country, graduating a thousand students a year. One of the most important claims of the science, and which is based on a late discovery, is the positive cure of deafness.

DESERTED BABY GIRL FOUND IN PACKING BOX

Augusta, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) A white baby girl, about 10 days old, was found Tuesday in the suburbs. The body was lying in a tomato packing box, with the head on a pillow, and the little one had pink ribbon around neck and arms. The coroner's inquest yesterday brought out nothing regarding the parentage of the infant. The authorities are investigating.

Robinson Draws Crowds.

Bud Robinson leaves Atlanta Sunday week, and the evangelical committee is urging the people to come to hear the ex-cowboy before he goes away. He preaches at 11 o'clock in the morning and 7:30 at night, and on Sunday conducts an afternoon service also. Last night he preached on the churches. He said that in Texas once, 150 g[illegible] and divekeepers wired him to c[illegible] and preach in their town. He went, Robinson declares, and converted half of the crowd, but the ministers of that town have never forgiven him yet for doing so.

STATE CLEARING HOUSE CONTROL BOARD NAMED

Headquarters of Georgia Association Will Be Established in Atlanta.

The board of control for the Georgia Clearing House association, organized by representatives of state banks in Georgia, has been announced by J. E. Dunson, of LaGrange, chairman of the organization committee. The five members are: A. P. Coles, of Atlanta, vice president of the Central Bank and Trust corporation; Fred W. Clarke, vice president of the Savannah Trust company; L. R. Farmer, cashier of the Bank of Louisville; Miller S. Bell, president of the Milledgeville Banking company, and Z. H. Clark, vice president of the Moultrie Banking company.

The headquarters of the clearing house will be in Atlanta. When the board of control assembles here next week to complete the organization and establish the clearing house, J. E. Dunson will serve as an ex-officio member.

The clearing house is patterned to a considerable extent after the local clearing house. Its establishment will mean an important change in the system of the state banks, and will cause the abolishment of the exchange fees on the part of the several hundred member banks.

Georgia is the pioneer in the establishment of state clearing houses. So unanimous is the approval of the Georgia bankers of this institution that the national banks, as well as those organized under state laws, are becoming members.

Recent communications from bankers of Mississippi and Tennessee say that efforts are being made in those states to adopt state clearing houses worked out on a similar basis.

HANSELL OUT OF RACE FOR SENATE SECRETARY

Thomasville, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—Owing to his absence from the state and the fact that he may be detained away for some time on account of the illness of his wife, Judge C. P. Hansell, of this city, has notified his friends here who had entered his name as a candidate for secretary of the senate that he would not be in the race for that position, but would combine with Mr. McClatchy in his candidacy for the office.

It was rather an unusual fact that Judge Hansell had been announced in all the papers by his friends here as a candidate for the position before he had even heard of Mr. Northen's death, making a vacancy in the office, his mail telling of it having missed connections. Realizing that he would be very much handicapped in making the race, Judge Hansell, while greatly appreciating the act of his friends, decided it would be best for him to withdraw from it.

LARGE CROP OF GRAIN PLANTED IN LAURENS

Dublin, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) Laurens county this year has sowed the largest acreage in wheat that was ever known in her history. Persons who have kept closely in touch with the farmers all over the county say that the acreage will run from 1,500 to 1,900 acres of wheat alone, while something like 3,500 acres have been sown in oats.

A discussion of the average wheat yield in the county proved by the experience of those who have been planting wheat for the past five or six years, revealed the fact that the average yield of this grain in Laurens is not less than fifteen bushels per acre, and it is nothing uncommon for it to yield as high as thirty-five and fifty bushels. Using fifteen bushels as a basis, the yield of wheat in Laurens next year, under favorable growing conditions, is now estimated at 22,500 bushels, and the oat crop at 27,500 bushels.

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS BETTER, SAYS SLATON

Governor Expects Money to Be Easier in the East After January.

Governor John M. Slaton, who has been for several weeks in New York city for the purpose of refunding the Georgia state bond issue, returned to Atlanta Thursday afternoon.

"Financial conditions," he said, "have greatly improved in the east within the last ten days or two weeks, and leading financiers whom I consulted expect the condition to improve right along now, war or no war. Of course, a speedy end to the war would greatly help the situation. They expect, however, that after the middle of January money will be much easier and the business conditions of the country will have begun upon a period of marked improvement over the conditions which have existed since the outbreak of the European war.

"Under the circumstances just mentioned the New York financiers advised me that it would be much better not to take any action in the matter of disposing of state bonds until the middle of January, particularly in view of the fact that these bonds cannot be placed until July 1."

N. O. BENNETT ELECTED MAYOR OF LOGANVILLE

Loganville, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—N. O. Bennett defeated W. T. Brooks for mayor of Loganville in a hot election today and carried his entire ticket for council with him to victory. Bennett's successful efforts to have the city limits extended and recognition of his work as state legislator contributed to his winning at the polls by a large majority.

The councilmen elected are: W. H. Braswell, B. R. Floyd, E. A. Webb, D. H. Hodges, T. M. Worthy and T. P. Weaver.

THREATENING NOTES ARE SENT TO FAMILY OF MURDERED MAN

Columbus, Ga., December 3.—(Special.)—The family of the late W. P. Hindsman, who was mysteriously murdered six months ago, have recently been receiving threatening letters from unknown parties. The family residence, which is located in Linwood, outside the city limits, has been rocked several times at night recently. Last night several missiles were thrown into the house and a brickbat narrowly missed striking Mrs. Hindsman. The family today appealed to the authorities for protection.

Hindsman was shot down at night as he was walking along the streets, and no motive for the murder has ever developed.

NEGRO PARSON'S STORY OF ROBBERY DOUBTED

Quitman, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) Rev. W. G. Alexander preached the annual sermon to the A. M. E. conference last night. Dr. J. C. Caldwell, of Allen; C. E. League spoke to the conference on "Duty to Young People." Bishop Flipper requested the pastors to celebrate the second Sunday in May as "Mothers' Day."

Rev. J. P. Peeks said he was robbed of $54.00 in cash and a package in Valdosta. His story is doubted and if not cleared up he will not receive an appointment. Rev. J. B. Brown was short $42.00 in his claims.

Bishop Flipper commented most favorably to the conference today on more and better schools for negro youths for the city of Atlanta.

Twenty persons applied to enter the conference to preach today. They were sent before the committee on admissions. Book Steward J. T. Wilkerson asked the conference to buy the 1,000 volumes which he had on hand for them. Dr. R. H. Singleton, who has been returned to the $50,000 new church at Savannah, was in conference with the bishop today. He will be elected bishop for Africa at the next general conference.

The missionary mass meeting was a feature of the conference tonight, Drs. J. A. Hadley and C. M. Tanner were the speakers. Treasurer L. H. Smith asks for $10,000 to close up the school work.

The characters of the preachers were passed as they were called before the conference, during which time the bishop took occasion to call the conference's attention to the importance of paying their debts.

"You preachers ought to pay your debts. I am not going to retain you in my conference unless you pay your debts."

Rev. J. M. Long and F. L. Bouey were named by the bishop as a committee on the preachers' connectional aid association.

LACY FOUND GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Montgomery, Ala., Decemer 3.—Theo Lacy was found guilty of embezzling $2,207.12 state funds by a jury in the criminal division of the city court this morning. The indictment was the same as the one upon which James G. Oakley, former president of the board of convict inspectors, was acquitted several months ago. Judge Armstead Brown will pronounce sentence Saturday.

Lacy was taking a bath when it was announced that the jury was ready to report. He received the verdict without any display of feeling, chewing a piece of gum and sitting in court with his legs crossed.

Lacy, former chief clerk of the state convict department, was convicted several months ago of embezzling $50,000 of the state funds and sentenced to ten years imprisonment. His appeal from this decision now is pending.

The trial of James G. Oakley, former president of the state convict board, on the same indictment, was postponed today until the next term of court.

ALABAMA MAN FINED ON PEONAGE CHARGE

Mobile, Ala., December 3.—J. E. Dean, of Evergreen, Ala., charged with peonage in that he kept Wiley Jordan, a negro, in a state of involuntary servitude, entered a plea of guilty in the United States district court here late yesterday and was sentenced to pay a fine.

This case was similar to the ones in which the supreme court rendered a decision last Monday upholding the peonage laws as constitutional.

HOW THE INCOME TAX HITS CONGRESSMEN

Washington, December 3.—The income tax law caused the deduction of a total of $16,000 from the salaries of representatives in congress for the current year. The deductions were made today in the checks issued by the sergeant-at-arms to the personnel of the house. The money will be turned back into the treasury.

WOLF OF WALL STREET FOR THE ATLANTA PEN

David Lamar Found Guilty and Given a Sentence of Two Years.

New York, December 3.—David Lamar was today found guilty of impersonating Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, for the purpose of defrauding J. P. Morgan & Co. and the United States Steel corporation. He was immediately sentenced to serve two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

The jury deliberated on the evidence for 45 minutes. Lamar was convicted on two counts of the second of the three indictments against him. His counsel announced that an appeal would be taken to the United States supreme court on writs of error.

After counsel had interposed motions for a writ of error and permission to file a bill of exceptions, Lamar was admitted to $10,000 bail pending an appeal.

Known as Wall Street Wolf.

The crime of which Lamar—nicknamed by brokers "The Wolf of Wall Street"—was convicted is one seldom entered on the records of the federal court here. The government charged that Lamar and his friend, Edward Lauterbach, a lawyer, entered into a conspiracy to obtain money from the United States Steel corporation and the Morgan firm by representing themselves as the agents of Speaker Clark and other men high in congress. To further this conspiracy, it was charged, Lamar telephoned Lewis Cass Ledyard and others, represented himself over the telephone to be Representative Palmer, of Pennsylvania, said that he was acting with the knowledge and sanction of Speaker Clark and sought to have Mr. Ledyard obtain employment for Lauterbach with the Morgan firm or the steel corporation.

The telephone conversations, it was testified, lasted for several days before Mr. Ledyard telephoned to the real Representative Palmer and found that he had been talking previously with an imposter. In the meantime Mr. Ledyard had seen Lauterbach, and Lauterbach, Mr. Ledyard said, had demanded money for his services.

Three Indictments Found.

Three indictments were found by the grand jury. Two of them charged Lamar with representing himself as an officer of the United States government; the third charged Lamar and Lauterbach with conspiracy. The one naming Lauterbach, District Attorney Marshall said, would be pressed against Lauterbach at an early date.

After the indictments were made public Lamar fled the jurisdiction of the federal court for the southern district of New York and remained in Washington, whence he resisted extradition. Detectives, however, found him here not long ago, walking in the lobby of one of New York's best known hotels.

12 ALLEGED MURDERERS ARE TRIED IN AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) Superior court closed yesterday, and after eleven alleged murderers receiving various sentences, the twelfth went free on the ground that he had simply "beat the other fellow to it" in firing his pistol. At the session of city court to begin Monday, there are 125 cases on the docket, indicating that the evildoers are flourishing in this section, even if the business men are having a hard row to hoe.

CHATTANOOGA TIGERS PLAY A. A. C. QUINT

Local Basketball Season Will Be Opened Up Tomorrow Night.

The Chattanooga Tigers will have the honor of opening up the local 1914-1915 basketball season when they come here tomorrow night to play the Atlanta Athletic club on the latter's court.

The Tigers have a much stronger five this season than when they played here last season, and local fans remember the splendid game that they played against the local crew then.

The local quintet is playing a better brand of ball and will face the Lookouts with the same line-up that they used last season, though it is working better than it was then.

The probable line-up will be as follows:

ATLANTA.	POS.	CHATT.
Smith	L. F.	Norman
Forbes	R. F.	McCullam
Dubard	C.	Brockham
Weaver	L. G.	Ohls
E. Carter	R. G.	G. Gamble

Decatur Girls Win.

Decatur, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) An interesting event of Thursday afternoon was the basket-ball game between Decatur High school girls and the Marietta team. The final count was 60 to 0, in favor of the Decatur team.

Although one-sided, the game was extremely exciting from start to finish. The Decatur guards at all times kept their goal from danger.

Eight Auburn Plainsmen In Last Game Saturday; Indians Slight Favorites

Aside from furnishing Atlanta football fans with one of the best games of a splendid football season, the Auburn-Carlisle game here tomorrow at Grant field will be of interest in other ways.

The game will be the last football engagement of eight of the Auburn regulars, who have either played their four years at Auburn or who will graduate next June.

With the knowledge that this is going to be their last football engagement and still smarting under their poor showing against Georgia, which caused the dopesters to vote the championship to Tennessee, these eight men are going to play their hardest.

Captain Robinson and Kearley, ends; Louisalle and Culpepper, tackles; Pitts, center; Thigpen, guard, and Arnold and Hart, backfield stars, are the eight men who will engage in their last game Saturday.

Warner's Parting Game.

The game will also mark the last one that Coach Glenn "Pop" Warner, director of athletics at Carlisle, will handle the Redskins in. Rumor has it that next season he will be seen in charge of the University of Pittsburg eleven.

"Pop" is exceedingly popular with the Indians. The eleven is determined to play its best against Auburn in an effort to close their coach's connection with them with a victory.

This will add incentive to the Indians' play, and, pitted against the desire of the eight Auburn veterans to complete their careers with a victory, will lend added zest to the play of the two elevens.

The Auburn defense in this game will meet the best offense that it has been up against this season. Every bit of the stone wall line's great strength will have to be used to stop the charges of the fleet and powerful Indian backs.

Carlisle's defense will also furnish Auburn as stiff an argument as any they have faced this season, and the line plunging attack will not be as formidable as in other games.

Carlisle Favored.

Carlisle will enter the game a slight favorite, due to the dope and her showing against Alabama, whom they defeated Wednesday, 20 to 3, using only straight football and with a patched up line-up as well.

Against Auburn the Indians will open up everything they possess, and they will start their regular line-up and keep it in the game as long as possible.

The outcome of the game depends principally on the mental and physical condition of the Auburn eleven. They had unquestionably gone back in the game against Georgia. Whether they have recovered sufficiently to play their best against the Indians or not remains to be seen.

One thing is certain, unless Auburn does play her very best against the Indians she is likely to come out on the smaller end of a good-sized score.

Good Crowd Certain.

A splendid crowd of football fans will attend the game, and if the weather is good, as good a crowd as attended any game during the entire season will be on hand.

The Indians' visit has been the sole topic of football conversation since Turkey day. Many fans who never saw a football game before will go to the game out of curiosity and to witness the spectacular brand of football for which the Indians are noted. The Indians arrive here today. They spent Thursday at Anniston, Ala.

Governor Slaton and his staff will be the guests of the two elevens. Other prominent Georgians in offical and private life will attend the game, having received invitations.

The admission fee to the game will be $1, with reserved seats selling for 25 cents extra. Automobiles can be parked for $1.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. Innis Brown will referee, Bob Williams umpire and Dick Jemison will be head linesman. The probable line-up is as follows:

CARLISLE.	Pos.	AUBURN.
Wallette	L. E.	Kearley
Welmas	L. T.	Steed
Busch	L. G.	Taylor
Winnesbick	C.	Pitts

BIG FOOTBALL MATCHES ABANDONED IN BRITAIN

London, December 3.—Delegates of the English, Scottish, Welsh and Irish professional football associations, at a meeting in London today decided to recommend to their respective associations that international football matches this season be abandoned.

A statement was issued saying:

"There is no evidence that the playing of football has hindered or is hindering recruiting. On the contrary, there is good reason to conclude that football has encouraged and has assisted recruiting. In these circumstances, this meeting recommends that, except as regards international matches, it is not right that football should be suspended.

"This meeting is of the opinion that to deprive the working people of our country of their Saturday afternoon's recreation would be unfair and very mischievous."

The international football matches are the great sporting events of the year in the United Kingdom. They draw upwards of 100,000 spectators, who travel long distances to witness the contests.

AUBURN SCHEDULE FOR NEXT SEASON

Same List of Games as Auburn Had During the Past Season.

Auburn, Ala., Dcember 3.—(Special.) Although it has been practically complete for the past two weeks, the 1915 Auburn schedule has just been made public. Due to her enviable football record, Auburn has been the recipient of numerous offers from teams in other territories besides the south, to be included in the schedule for next season. However, every team that has been on Auburn's schedule for the past two years asked to be included again, as their dealings with Auburn had been extremely pleasant and cordial. So, despite several tempting offers, Auburn decided to play as many games as possible among the teams of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association, of which she is a member. In so doing she enables everyone to get in line on the comparative strength of the association members, and at the same time is sure of sportsmanlike treatment at the hands of her opponents.

Thus the same teams will again be the opponents when Auburn lines up for 1915, though the dates have been rearranged to advantage. The University of Georgia game has been moved up to October 30, and the Thanksgiving date, which has been open with Auburn for the past several seasons, will be given to the Georgia School of Technology. This gives Auburn as strong a schedule as any team in the south, and the hardest among association members, as of the seven closed dates all teams are members of the S. I. A. A.

The Vanderbilt game at Birmingham is by long odds the greatest drawing card of the Birmingham season, and one of the best-paying games in the south. The date with Georgia Tech in Atlanta on Thanksgiving means that Auburn will also have the best-paying Atlanta game, and thus, financially, Auburn will have as profitable a schedule as any southern team. The schedule then that follows should in every respect be as well rounded, both from the viewpoint of good games and good financial returns, as that possessed by any southern team. The schedule follows:

October 2—Mercer university at Auburn.

October 9—University of Florida at Auburn.

October 16—Clemson Agricultural college at Clemson.

October 23—Mississippi A. & M. at Birmingham.

October 30—University of Georgia at Athens.

November 6—Pending.

November 13—Vanderbilt university at Birmingham.

Thanksgiving Day—Georgia School of Technology at Atlanta.

Constitution Praised By uburn Alumnus For Championship Stand

The following letter is self-explanatory:

Sporting Editor, Atlanta Constitution: Dear Sir—The student body, alumni and friends of Auburn appreciate the broadness and fairness of your position in the matter of the S. I. A. A. championship, in very marked contrast to the position of some of our own state papers. Will you kindly give space on your sporting page to this little communication?

The Memphis Commercial Ledger, Tennessee papers are unanimous in saying that "Tennessee is the winner over Auburn." Strange, isn't it, that the Tennessee papers should do that way? Over in Atlanta, the neutral territory, Auburn is considered the winner, but it remains for Birmingham papers to decide against their own state college, though Atlanta, Birmingham, Montgomery, Mobile, New Orleans and other cities are divided on the question of the "championship" and "a game" (which Tennessee refused to play), "would have decided it most probably in favor of Auburn by a good aggregate score?"

Imagine, if you can, The Atlanta Constitution or The Atlanta Journal in a similar situation, where the University of Georgia or Georgia Tech was concerned! And yet we wonder what is the matter with Alamaba!

Very respectfully, AUBURN ALUMNUS.

Auburn, Ala., December 3, 1914.

QUERIES ANSWERED

(Under this head the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sport.)

In what year did the Carlisle Indians play Vanderbilt? What was the score? How did the Indians rank in the east that year?—A. F. F.

The Indians played Vanderbilt in Nashville on the Thursday before Thanksgiving in 1906. Vanderbilt won the game, 4 to 0. Bob Blake kicking a field goal in the middle of the game some time. The Indians had a representative team that season, one that gave all comers a battle.

Is a forward pass complete when received by a legal player, after having been touched by another player, before hitting the ground?—W. J. M.

Yes.

Two Years' Contract at Exceeding $16,000 a Season Is the Reported Terms to Big Hurler.

Chicago, December 3.—That Walter Johnson, premier pitcher of the American league, has signed a contract with the Chicago Federal league club was the announcement made by Charles Weeghman, president of the local club, late today.

Later it was declared Johnson's contract was for two years. The amount of his salary was not announced. Weegham said that he had received the news by long-distance tleephone from Joe Tinker, who saw Johnson in Coffeyville, Kan., today.

More Money Than Anybody.

Coffeyville, Kan., December 3.—"Walter Johnson will be seen in a Federal league uniform for the next two years," said Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federals, as he boarded a train for Chicago late today. Tinker carried with him a contract which Johnson signed after a day of negotiations here.

"As to Johnson's salary," continued Tinker, "you may say he will make more money than anybody."

"Will it be more than $16,000 a year?" he was asked.

"Will it? That isn't anything," said Tinker.

When Tinker arrived here today Johnson motored in from his farm to meet him. After a long-distance telephone talk between Tinker and President Weeghman, in Chicago, Tinker and Johnson quickly came to terms.

Fight in Courts Over Johnson.

Washington, December 3.—Walter Johnson will, not go to the Federal league without a fight in the courts with the Washington American league team, of which he has been the mainstay for seven years. Manager Clark Griffith, learning tonight of the pitcher's deal with the Chicago Federals, declared he had an option on Johnson's services for another year and would "sue him to the end of the earth" before he would allow it to be broken.

"There was a provision in the 1914 contract," said Griffith, "whereby I obtained an option on Johnson's services for the 1915 season. Twenty-five hundred dollars of the $12,000 he has received was given for the specific purpose of reserving an option in 1915. I am convinced he has violated the agreement and I will sue him to the end of the earth before I acknowledge his right to sign with the Federals."

Speculation as to what effect Johnson's action would have on other Washington players was rife here tonight. It has been rumored that Clyde Milan, centerfielder, and Johnson's closest friend, may go to the Federal camp.

Johnson has been the star of the Washington team almost ever since he began his major league career here in 1908.

TECH CLASS TEAMS START BASKETBALL

Play the First Game Tonight. Football Season Starts Next Week.

By Hal Reynolds.

The Tech classes will begin their schedule of athletic meetings tonight in the Crystal palace, when the basketball season will be opened with games between the juniors and subs and the sophomores and freshmen.

As the sophomores and freshmen have the two strongest line-ups of any of the classes, their meeting should bring forth some real playing, as the winner will have a big edge in the race for the pennant.

The regular varsity basket-ball season will not begin until after the Christmas holidays, but insomuch as the candidates for the five are chosen from the players on the class teams, the men will fight hard to get a chance to make the varsity.

The class football games for the championship of the school will start their schedules on December 12, when the seniors meet the subs and the juniors will try conclusions with the freshmen.

Judging by the large number of candidates out for the class elevens, the interest is much greater this year than it has ever been before. All told, there are at least 150 men trying out for positions on the five teams.

Quite a number of men who made their letters this fall in football participated in the class games last year. They would prove a formidable eleven, as some of the men include Senter, Morrison, Goree, Bryant, Churchill, Knapp, Gardner, Roundtree, Carpenter and Spence.

Greater Firmness Was Shown By Some Leading Securities

Confidence Stimulated in Stock Market by Decision to Publish List of Transactions—Some Obscure Bonds Recorded Declines. Money for Short Dates at Lower Rates.

New York, December 3.—Numerous favorable developments imparted greater cheerfulness to the general financial situation today. Trading in bonds was broader and larger in the aggregate than at any time since the recent resumption and greater firmness was shown by the more seasoned issues. It was plain, however, that the line was being more closely drawn between speculative and investment bonds, the latter being in greater favor.

Declines in some of the obscure bonds were again severe, ranging from 2 1-2 to almost 6 points. The more substantial advances included Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway fours and fives, New Haven sixes, New York railway adjustment fives and New York, West Chester and Boston fours and one-half, the latter recovering 9 1-2 points of their spectacular decline of the mid-year.

The decision to issue daily what in effect amounts to an official list of transactions in stocks, also served to stimulate confidence.

There was an increased inquiry for almost all classes of short term notes. The $5,000,000 Swedish government loan taken by a financial syndicate, gave every promise of success, an attractive feature being the high interest yield. There were rumors of further loans by our bankers to foreign governments, but these lacked confirmation.

Money for the shorter dates was obtainable at lower rates and call loans went down to 3 1-2 per cent. The local flow of money indicated that clearing house institutions have lost a considerable sum to the sub-treasury, owing largely to the heavy payments of special revenue taxes and further retirement of emergency currency.

Exchange on London was dull and slightly easier, but Reichmarks continued strong. The Bank of England made an indifferent weekly exhibit, showing a loss of $4,000,000 gold.

SOUTHERN SELLING SENT PRICES DOWN

Cotton Market Opened at Decline, Owing to Lower Cables—Closed at About Lowest Point of the Day.

New York, December 3.—Reports of an easier turn in the southern spot markets were accompanied by some southern selling in the cotton market here today and prices broke rather sharply. The close was steady at a net loss of 9 to 16 points.

After opening steady at a decline of 1 to 3 points, in response to rather lower cables than due, the market almost immediately began to sag off, under scattering liquidation and southern and Liverpool selling. There was enough investment buying to help the undertone, but it was in evidence only on a scale down, while southern offerings became rather more liberal during the afternoon, with May and later deliveries selling down to the lowest prices reached since the reopening of the exchange.

Trading in December and January was relatively quiet, but those months fully shared the decline, with December selling at 7 cents or within 15 points of the recent low level, while January and March broke to the low point of November 18. Closing prices were steadied by covering, but at practically the low point of the day.

Some of the southern spot markets, as officially reported, showed slight declines and there were rumors of lower offerings from the interior, while some attributed the southern selling to hedging against supplies held in the south.

Closed at Lowest of Day

New Orleans December 3.—The price of cotton fell off today under selling pressure that appeared to originate in the interior of the belt. It was generally considered that holders of spots were selling hedges because of large private crop estimates and the fear of a large estimate by the government next week. The close was at the lowest of the day, a loss of 11 to 15 points on the trading months. It was the most active day and fluctuations were the widest since the resumption of future trading.

Spots also showed a downward tendency, local prices losing three-sixteenths of a cent, while spot markets generally marked quotations down one-sixteenth to one-eighth. Dallas lost one-eight and quoted middling at 6 7-8c, the lowest price in weeks.

The statistics of the day were rather encouraging, but they had no influence on fluctuations. Total port receipts for the day were 49,061 bales, while total shipments, including coastwise clearances, were 65,798 bales, causing a decrease in port stocks. Receipts thus far this week were 289,854 bales against 302,319 bales up to the same time last week, which was taken to mean that the holding movement was growing among farmers.

Spot cotton easy. Sales on the spot, 325 bales; to arrive, 1,035; good ordinary, 5 5-8; strict good ordinary, 6 1-8; low middling, 6 5-8; strict low middling, 6 7-8; middling, 7 1-8; strict middling, 7 3-8; good middling, 7 3-4; strict good middling, 8 1-8; receipts, 13,414; stock, 243,677.

TAKING OF PROFITS MADE WHEAT LOSE

Prices Advanced Early, But Later the Market Became Heavy—Corn and Oats Also Suffered Losses.

Chicago, December 3.—Profit-taking by longs in wheat today more than wiped out an early advance, due to higher cables. Closing prices were heavy, ⅝ to ¾ under last night. Corn suffered a net loss of ⅞@½ to ½@⅝ and oats of ⅜ to ⅝. Provisions advanced 2½@10 cents.

Depression during the last half of the day in the wheat pit contrasted strongly with bullish sentiment at the start. Liverpool reported offerings there were light and the demand increasingly urgent. Advices were at hand that Italy had extended until June a reduction of the custom house charges on imports. There were also numerous reports of dry weather threatening the domestic winter crop, especially in western Kansas. Realizing sales that finally swung the wheat marke to the bear side came chiefly from speculators. The downward tendency in the late trading was quickened somewhat as a result of ex-cash offers appearing to be hampered by lack of readily available vessels to load for Europe.

Although corn at first hardened on account of the scantiness of rural offers, the market afterward sagged with wheat.

Oats merely reflected the action of other grain.

Provisions continued to ascend, regardless of declines in the price of hogs.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON MARKET

New York, December 3.—(Special.)—Cables this morning were slightly lower than due and Liverpool was a seller here early on arbitrage, also tha our market had rather an easier tone in the early trading. There was a moderate amount of selling in the south, particularly from New Orleans, and as sentiment here is rather bearish on account of the volume of cotton which is known to be in the south, prices eased off during the day some 10 points from last night's close. There was also some fair excellent demand for October and a fair demand from the trade, which sufficed to hold the market around 7.50. One large New England mill is reported to have gone on full time, according to the press, and our advices from the south are that mills of that section are now better employed than for some time. There was also some buying of contracts on the decline for southern mill brokers. As there is very little speculation, which is natural as the market has still to find itself, but as anticipated there is an increase in the investment demand on all declines. Unless the southern markets ease off, our market is not likely to decline at all rapidly from this level.
HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, December 3.—(Special.)—Lower quotations for spot cotton in southern markets induced freer offerings here today. These came principally from New Orleans and Liverpool and there being no particular interest on the buying side, prices underwent a moderate decline. Although exports for the day showed an increase, they exerted no influence on the market because of the large amount of cotton held in the interior.

AUSTRIA WANTS COTTON AND NAVAL STORES

Washington, December 3.—The Austrian ambassador, Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, asked state department officials today what this government had learned regarding shipments intended for Austrian manufacturers of cotton, rosin, turpentine and other non-contraband articles which his country desires.

High insurance rates, it was said, has made it almost impossible to get vessels to carry goods which Austria would purchase from the United States. The state department could not give the ambassador any assurance that even non-contraband goods would not be seized by Great Britain if there were reason for suspicion that contraband articles also were aboard the vessel.

Hupmobile
Car of the American Family

Limousine Protection With Limousine Luxury.

In a closed car most people want not only protection from the weather, but evidences of extra comfort.

The new Hupp sedan top thoroughly conforms with the general idea, for it affords both, according to John M. Smith Co.

It gives you not only a closed car, but a closed car without rattle and squeak.

Outside it gives you a fine finish and graceful lines that match the beauty of the new Hupp.

Inside it gives you a beautiful, dignified finish, electric dome light, doors and windows that fit snug and secure, and plenty of clear vision and head-room.

With this sedan top you derive all the benefits of a permanent enclosed car, with none of the high cost.

You have the unrestricted use of two cars at the price of one.

To see the Hupmobile with the sedan and coupe tops is to succumb to the attraction of its utility and its beauty.

COOKING SCHOOL BEGINS MONDAY

Arrangements Being Completed for Demonstrations in Cooking at Taft Hall

Mrs. Florence Austin Chase, the Demonstrator, Will Arrive Saturday. Splendid Program Has Been Arranged—Everything Free

ARRANGEMENTS for the free cooking school and demonstrations to be conducted by Mrs. Florence Austin Chase, under the auspices of The Constitution, are progressing splendidly and all will be in readiness when this clever lecturer and exponent of the cooking science calls her first class to order promptly at 2:30 Monday afternoon at Taft Hall.

Mrs. Chase will arrive in Atlanta Saturday and take personal charge of the advance preparations, so that there will be no question as to the complete success of the affair. She has arranged a most complete and comprehensive program of events in cooking, and will show a hundred and one attractive and especially interesting and valuable recipes and offer suggestions which, if taken advantage of by her classes, will be of real service to them in the preparation of their daily meals. Practical recipes of every-day service will make up the cooking programs instead of the hard-to-prepare and seldom-used dishes so frequently demonstrated by cooking experts, and economy will be the keynote of the cooking school. Mrs. Chase will show newer, simpler and easier ways of doing those very things the housewife finds necessary every day, and will demonstrate practical items which make up the daily bill of fare in the average home. The results of her cooking efforts will be offered to the women in daily attendance that they may see for themselves the entire practicability of her lectures and demonstrations and learn by actual participation how the various dishes are prepared.

The local firms to be represented by booth displays are getting their exhibits in shape. The co-operation of these local concerns will add greatly to the general interest and attractiveness of the cooking school.

There will be a complete change of program at each session. Everything in connection with the affair is free to the women of this city and vicinity.

Remember the dates—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons, December 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11—in Taft Hall.

AFTER 20 YEARS LAW GRIPS HIM

Betts Fled From New York, Grew Rich in Chicago and Is Now Under Arrest to Answer for Old Crime.

Chicago, December 3.—At the request of the New York police that they detain as a fugitive from justice, Carleton H. Betts, accused of forgery in New York in 1894, the Chicago police today took into custody Carleton Hudson, a wealthy Chicago financial operator. A fugitive warrant was sworn out for Hudson, who refused to make any statement.

The message to the Chicago police was signed "Faurot," inspector of police, New York, and read:

"Arrest for forgery and fraud Carleton H. Betts. Assumes the name Carleton Hudson; is 50 years of age. Complainant, Margaret McGowan, of this city; offense committed March 19, 1894. Hudson or Betts now located in your city. Hold and wire me information of arrest."

Carleton Hudson, of Chicago, the man arrested today, has been known for years as a pillar of the Moody church, and his acquaintances here were stunned by the news of his arrest and by the statement that throughout his life here he had been sought by the police of New York.

Hudson was taken to the Central police station, but was not placed in a cell. Later he conferred with his attorney, Clarence Darrow, but neither Hudson nor his counsel would make a statement concerning the arrest.

Hudson's office, where he was taken in custody, is in the First National Bank building, and he was known as a man of wealth and standing.

Fled Twenty Years Ago.

New York, December 3.—Carleton H. Betts fled this city twenty years ago while awaiting trial on a charge of forging the name of Mrs. Margaret McGowan to a check for $500. He was out on a bond of $1,500, which was furnished by Joshua Saunders, his father's friend. The bond was forfeited.

Several attempts to locate Betts failed. Yesterday Lowell Thomas, a Chicago newspaper man, appeared at the office of Henry S. Cook, attorney for the heirs of Saunders, and announced that he knew where Betts could be found. Thomas later appeared in District Attorney Whitman's office and a warrant was sworn out.

A detective will be sent to Chicago immediately to bring to this city the man the police assert is Betts.

Andrew J. Shipman, counsel for Mrs. McGowan, said that when his client first met Betts he (Betts) was president of the Incorporators and Investors' company, of No. 1 Broadway, and Mrs. McGowan was administratrix of her husband's estate and guardian of two infant children. Mr. Shipman said that Betts induced Mrs. McGowan to give him $3,000 of her money to invest.

"Finally," continued the attorney, "Mrs. McGowan wanted her money. Betts gave her checks on banks in Tennessee and other places, which were returned as worthless. We then had him brought into the supreme court, where he produced a check for $500 marked 'For payment in full,' which was ostensibly indorsed by Mrs. McGowan.

"The court took the check and Betts was charged with having forged Mrs. McGowan's signature. About the same time Betts was arrested by the sheriff of Cortland county, New York, on a charge of altering a deed. He stood trial for that and was acquitted. Then he was brought back to New York city and lodged in Tombs prison because he could not furnish a bond of $2,500. He made a plea that his bond be reduced so that he might obtain his liberty and repay Mrs. McGowan. The court then reduced the bond to $1,500, but Mrs. McGowan's money was not forthcoming. The case was then called to trial.

"Betts failed to appear. We have been looking for him ever since then."

Accused by Minneapolis Woman.

Minneapolis, December 3.—Carleton Hudson is defendant in a suit brought here by Mrs. Caroline M. King, widow of Colonel William King, to revoke a deed made in 1912 to a Minneapolis business block valued at $40,000. Mrs. King alleges the deed was obtained by fraud and force.

The suit also involves the validity of judgment notes amounting to approximately $120,000 alleged to have been executed by Mrs. King to Hudson during twelve years of their business relations. The notes were said to have been made to cover loans to Hudson and for expenses he contracted while caring for litigation instituted by Mrs. King to recover property held by her husband in Chicago and Boston which had been given in trust to three women.

Hudson's daughter, Marguerite, is holder of the deed to certain property and is co-defendant.

GEORGIA TO PLAY THE NAVY BASEBALL

Annapolis, Md., December 3.—The annual baseball game between Army and Navy next season will be played at West Point, May 29, according to Navy's baseball schedule for 1915, announced today, which shows twenty-three games, beginning March 24. Besides Yale, Harvard, Cornell and Pennsylvania, the list includes: University of North Carolina, April 24; University of Georgia, April 28; A. & M. of North Carolina, May 1, and Georgetown, May 26. All games will be at Annapolis except the Army game.

A HEALTHY FINANCIAL STATEMENT

would be one where there is plenty of money on hand; but if money were not invested in merchandise, supplies and services, hoarding would result and business would stop. The average healthy financial statement is one where the Current Assets (money, accounts and goods) are more than the Current Liabilities (notes and accounts payable). These should be accurately determined periodically by a Certified Public Accountant.

DR. MELL WON'T HEAD BESSIE TIFT COLLEGE

Informs the Trustees That He Cannot Accept the Presidency.

Athens, Ga., December 3.—(Special.) Dr. Mell, president of the Georgia Baptist convention, son of the late chancellor of the University of Georgia, tonight wrote the board of trustees of Bessie Tift college at Forsyth that he cannot accept the presidency tendered him at the recent convention. Bessie Tift is the State Baptist Conventional school for young women, for which $90,000 is to be raised shortly. Dr. Mell has property here, a law practice, a place in the university faculty as parliamentarian and is serving four churches, the same four which his father served for years.

MORE MEN ARE URGED FOR THE MARINE CORPS

Washington, December 3.—Appointment of naval academy graduates as marine officers, increase of the personnel of the corps by about 800 officers and men, including two brigadier generals and the assignment of marines to small warships for possible service in foreign countries, constitute the chief recommendations in the annual report of Major General George Barnett, commandant of the marine corps, made public today.

Emphasizing the need for obtaining marine officers from Annapolis, General Barnett observes:

"Not only would the corps then receive officers better educated technically than those now admitted but also better qualified physically. Recently there have been too many young officers of the corps who after their entry have developed physical defects which render them unfit for service."

The report asks that unless this recommendation is adopted congress shall provide for appointment from civil life of provisional second lieutenants, to serve as such for two years, meanwhile attending an officers' school.

Urging the increase in personnel, General Barnett points out that expeditionary work last year, especially in Mexico, made it necessary virtually to deplete barracks in this country.

General Barnett expresses fear that long continued service in the tropics will have "an unfortunate effect on the health of the corps."

Finally the commandant asks new ratings and increased pay for enlisted men who are doing technical work similar in character to that performed by enlisted men of the navy.

NO COACH IS QUALIFIED TO PICK ALL-STAR TEAM

Chicago, December 3.—No man is qualified to select an all-star football team, Alonzo A. Stagg, athletic director at the University of Chicago, asserted today in an article in The University Daily. Stagg declared it was difficult for a coach to choose the best men for his own team, let alone the best players on other teams.

"The nearest approach to justice that could be done," Stagg wrote, "would be to invite experts of each university to send in individual selections and to make a composite of the players so named."
